STEAMSHIP PRINCE HENRY

The new steamship Prince Henry which was here last week and which returns southbound tomorrow is probably the finest and most up-to-date steamer in the world. Her fittings and appurtenances are of the most modern type, nothing being omitted which can in a small space cater to the comfort and pleasure of the travelling public. While she is not an ocean liner she has many of the features of the vessels that ply between the American continent and the countries on the other side of either the Atlantic or Pacific. She is, however, designed for the Alaskan business and as such has no present competitor in the field. With such a steamship in operation and with a good hotel at Prince Rupert the Canadian National Steamships will be in a position to cater to the tourist business as never before. Next season should see a great change in this respect with Prince Rupert as the hub in a rapidly expanding industry, that of entertaining the holiday crowds who come north.

MUST DO OUR PART

In view of the changing situation it is necessary that Prince Rupert should do her part in keeping up appearances and making this a city worth seeing. Many citizens are doing something along this line. In the residential district the gardens are being improved, fences made sightly, houses painted. There has been a gradual development for many years and now the results are just being seen. We are rapidly changing from a pioneer city to a city of homes. With the city developing in the residential districts we find some difficulty in keeping pace in the business section. There sidewalks are needed and needed badly yet owners of property, already heavily taxed, oppose the building of new ones. While a great deal of sympathy is felt for the people who have had to pay heavy taxes on non-production property, it must be remembered that if the city goes down at heel the property loses its value. It is only by keeping up with the times that we can expect to make progress. Sidewalks must be built or the business will gravitate to those parts of the city where they have walks.

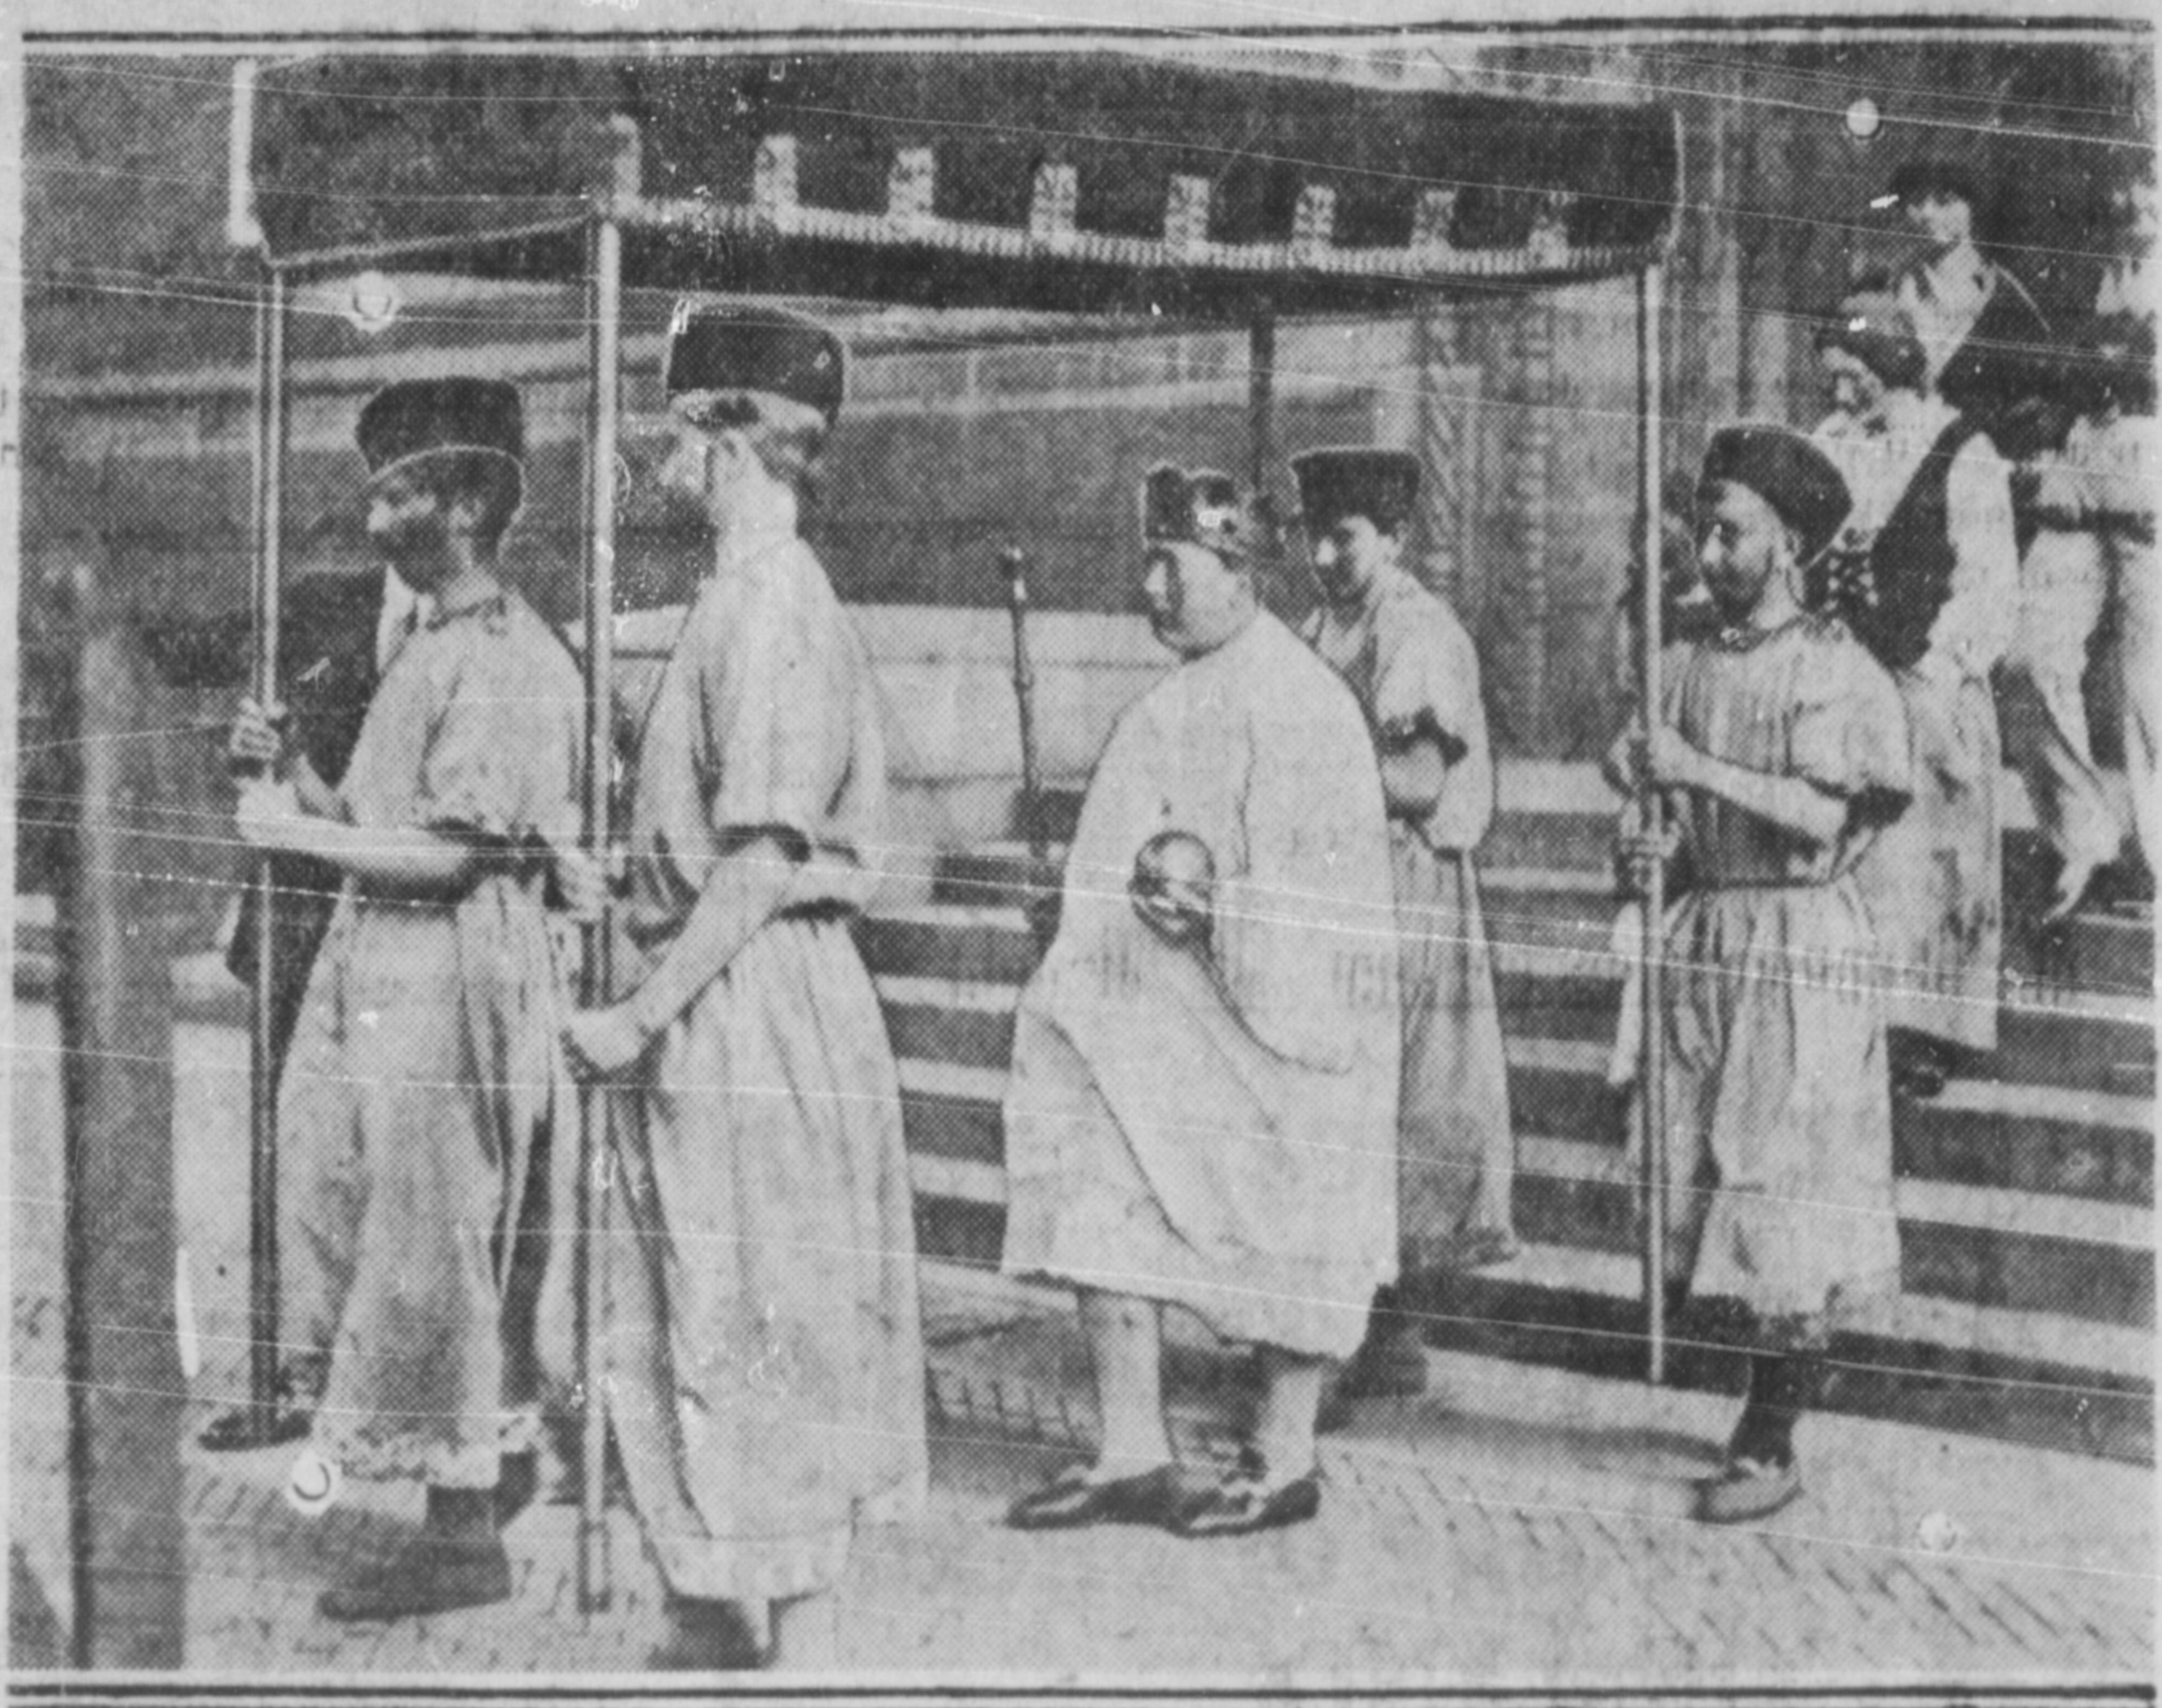

Already some of the sidewalks in Section One have been condemned and more will have to follow. The old wooden walks are out of date and must be closed soon. There is no way of building these except under the local improvement plan under which the cost is assessed against the owners. If they refuse to pay, then the walks cannot be built.

MAJORITY WAS SMALL

J. C. Brady Had Only 321 More Votes Than Fred Stork in Last Federal Election

Such things being easily forgettable, a number of inquiries have been made as to just exactly what the majority of J. C. Brady was over Fred Stork in the last federal election. Mr. Brady's majority was 321 in a total vote of 4,170 to 3,849. Federal elections in Skeena riding have in the past been usually close. In 1925, Fred Stork beat G. G. Bushby 3,633 to 2,940 and in 1921 Mr. Stork had a margin of only 38 votes over Lieut. Col. C. W. Peck, V. C. Judging from street talk, there is reason to believe that the forthcoming contest in this riding will also be close. David Goodall and Arnold Ross came before Magistrate McClymont in city police court this morning on charges of supplying liquor to Indians, the cases being adjourned until this afternoon.

YACHTSMEN ARE PLEASED

Letter to President George Bushby From Seattle Indicates Attitude

That the visiting yachtsmen were really pleased with their recent visit to Prince Rupert, is shown from the following letter: "Geo. G. Bushby, President, Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club, Prince Rupert, B.C. Dear Mr. Bushby:— The writer returned to Seattle a few days ago with many pleasant recollections of the race, but pleasantest of all is our remembrance of the hospitality and co-operation which were extended to us by your good self and your fellow members of the Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club. "The skippers of the various yachts all agree that our reception in your city, was the finest that we have ever received in any race in which we have participated. We will always have the brightest memories of our few days stay in Prince Rupert and will look back with pleasure upon the hospitality shown us and to the lasting friendships which we have formed. "Will you kindly extend my good wishes and thanks to the other members of your club, whose co-operation and kindness have not been forgotten. "I write this letter, not only on behalf of myself, but also the other yachtsmen in the international cruiser race and the Seattle Yacht Club, who sponsored the event. "With best wishes, I remain, "Yours very sincerely, Sig. Richard Froboese, Chairman, Seattle-Prince Rupert International Cruiser Race."

The Daily News' Subscription Campaign IS NOW GOING STRONG

NUMBER OF CANDIDATES KEEN FOR PRIZES AND WORKING HARD

The candidates who are working for the grand prizes in the Daily News Campaign are now keen to win. They have the opportunity of canvassing either in the city or outside and some of them are receiving a good deal of encouragement.

One difficulty has been that the circulation of the Daily News in the city was already almost at saturation point. Most people already subscribe. The News already has twice as many paid up subscribers right in the city as any other paper.

The reason for the success of the Daily News is that it tries to give to the people of the city and district as good a paper as possible. It is the intention to continue to improve and add new features from time to time.
