Preliminary Talks Are Today Preparatory to Sessions Tomorrow

France and Italy Are Occupying Limelight in Discussions With Regard To Mediterranean Navies

LONDON, Jan. 22.-Wth quiet talks in the seclusion of their own headquarters, delegates to the five-power naval disarmament conference are endeavoring today to remove preliminary difficulties and reach a basis of common understanding. The conference will get down to actual work tomorrow in private. In these preliminary conversations LEGSLATION delegates from France and Italy hold the stage. France would like for the Mediterranean Sea some pact similar to that concluded for the Pacific in Washington in 1922. What is desired is something to check naval rivalries in the Mediterranean.

Prince Rupert, the Key to The Orient

Hon. Frank Oliver in an article in the Toronto Star, strongly urges the building of a railway from Peace River through Monkman Pass to Hansard on the Canadian National Railway with a view to getting through to Vancouver. The above map shows how foolish is any attempt to build southerly when there is a direct route to the Pacific by way of Prince Rupert. The heavy dotted line to Prince Rupert is a short one leading by the most direct route to the Orient, while the lighter dotted line leading south meanders around in an effort to reach Vancouver.

The map shows the location of the new power plant being erected on the Ecstall River by the Northern Power Company, as part of their great expansion scheme to supply Prince Rupert and district. Work on this plant is well under way although, delayed somewhat just now by the unusually cold weather.
