Records of Packs Show That Fish Are Numerous

the canneries had been removed from their jurisdiction was negligible.

The protective service the speaker said, employed 270 persons in 1928. It had two steamers and 37 gas boats while 96 gas boats had been chartered. Thirteen hatcheries were maintained.

Last year the total salmon pack was 1,400,750 cases.

The major outlined some of the measures which had been enforced to protect the pack, one of which was to induce the canners to get together and reduce the amount of gear fished.

An encouraging feature was the improvement of the Fraser River. It was hoped that the treaty would be ratified. When this was completed an effort would be made to arrive at an agreement with the United States in regard to the Naas River.

One cause of injury to the fish was the building of power dams in a number of important rivers.

Talks of Herring

The speaker mentioned the herring, declaring that there was no depletion evident and the present quantity of fish taken was only like a drop in the bucket compared with the total fish on the coast. The fishermen were mistaken in their attitude toward this industry. There were plenty of herring.

The government, he said, was planning to build a vessel this year to protect the fisheries against American invasion. It was to have been built last year but owing to the estimates having been exceeded it had to be delayed a year. This would give complete protection to all the trollers.

At the conclusion the speaker was thanked by President G. A. Bryant, who spoke of the value of the information given.

Sometimes in a Mother's Life

A great question arises. What shall she feed her children? She knows they must have milk—but in what form? The answer, as found by thousands of happy mothers, is Nestlé's Evaporated Milk.

And here's the Reason! Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is just the best of fresh cow's milk with part of the water removed—then sealed and sterilized in air-tight containers. Add water again and you have absolutely pure, safe milk—but more readily digestible than ordinary milk because the large fat globules of the milk have been broken up into small ones of the same size as in Mother's milk. Also, the curds which form in the stomach when Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is used are soft and flaky and therefore easily digestible.

Use Nestlé's Evaporated Milk for Your Baby. Use it in coffee—in cocoa—in tea. Use it in all cooking and as a beverage by diluting with one to two parts water.
