SHOWS FOR FALL FAIR

Three Clever Groups of Performers Arranged to Visit Prince Rupert

The Fair Board at its meeting last night decided to import three star vaudeville acts for the forthcoming fair, each of which should give an interesting entertainment. One of these is known as the Quby Dog Act. It has two people and eight very pretty fluffy dogs which do some interesting tricks. It is said to be a very clever act.

Ken Williams in "Educated Hands" does acrobatic and other tricks.

Adolphe and Cynthia do juggling as well as acrobatic and classic dancing, wire walking and other stunts as well as tricks with clubs and balls.

The board last night went into the merits of various offerings and finally decided on the ones which will be here unless they have already been engaged for the dates of the local fair. The three decided upon are highly recommended and along with the Native Band, the Boys' Band and the Boys' Band musical contest should provide plenty of entertainment for the annual event.

W. H. Sherman presided at the meeting and most of the directors were present.

Although advanced in years beyond the allotted three score and ten, Mr. Partridge retained his youthfulness of mind and spirit to the end and, in spite of his doctor's strict injunctions, he carried on at his chosen work to within a few days of his death. The sympathy of the whole north is extended to Mrs. Partridge in her great bereavement.
