LOOKING BACK AT ELECTION

Looking back at the election and trying to understand I do not know in how many other (no change). its meaning, it seems to us that it may not necessarily be booths this illegal practice was ina hostile move against the British Preference or against dulged in by the Tories, but it is closer trade relations with Great Britain and the other then squeal at the Liberals. countries of the Empire. Hon. R. B. Bennett seldom mentioned these things in his speeches.

As a matter of fact, it was a hard time election, one that usually goes against any government. It might have been did in the above case. better for Mr. Mackenzie King to have waited a year, but from the "Prince George," the the difficulty was that it might take more than a year for Tories themselves voted some the country to recover and feel itself again prosperous. these men, for I myself saw Mr. With the price of wheat still falling and with a general Brady's agent wouching for one, and tendency toward curtailment, it was difficult to decide it is a certainty from the result of what to do.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Presumably the new Premier will attend the Imperial Conference in September. He will go there with a man-constituency shows conclusively date from the Canadian people but just what that mandate was it will be for him to discover.

Mr. Bennett is an imperialist, although he has also de- the beating in a sportsmanlike clared that he is a Canadian first, and he and his suppor- manner? ters have been cheered for the statement at almost every campaign meeting. One of the first and most important matters with which the new government will have to deal will be the settling of what will be their attitude toward Empire policy at the big conference. There is not much time in which to do it.

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Doubtless the unemployment situation has been over- time I took a sleep myself. emphasized for election purposes. Possibly the best means of dealing with it would be the undertaking of important public works especially in the west. The building of the coast outlet from the Peace River country would be a popular move.

The federal government will now be in close harmony with the provincial administration and it is to be expected that they will co-operate in the matter of railway kety blank poor measly, creeping, building. Promise has also been made that provincial crawling, disgusting blankety blank highways will have support from the federal treasury and losers won't pay. that probably the highway through Central British Columbia would be included in the scheme. Mr. Hunt identified some of the members of the crew of the steamer Prnce George and it is claimed that he did so without actually having known them sufficiently well. At any rate what he did was anything but criminal.

There possibly may have been things done on both sides swears he was perfectly sober. which were not in accord with the intention of the new intoxicated. If he had been perlaw. Should the verdict be upset by some technicality, another election would certainly show a similar result.

ILLEGAL PRACTICES AT ELECTION

Editor, Daily News:-

There has been considerable talk around town by an unsportsmanlike element of the Tory party that the Liberals won this election by illegal methods.

Let me say in reply that everything the Tories point to as irregular was duplicated by their own side, and they also indulged in illegal practices which the Liberals never attempted.

One glaring example is where they illegally appointed more than two agents for one polling booth in order to vote people who could not have otherwise voted. Under the Elections Act each candidate is entitled to have two agents only at each polling booth. At Seal Cove Mr. Brady appointed four, the two regular agents from the city and two other out-of-town voters, who were not entitled to vote here, and who merely presented their papers, voted and immediately left never for one moment even attempting to engage in the duties of an agent. The two original agents from the city remained all day at the booth and the others should never have been allowed to vote, and a more illegal manner of obtaining votes could not be imagined.
