ANNEXING UNITED STATES SUGGESTED

A year or two ago this paper suggested that Canada might some day annex the United States. The suggestion Mr. Pennock states, the Vancouver chances, of which he accepted 1411 70 times trying for home runs, two was received here with a certain amount of levity. Now, Stock Exchange has been a focal (1323 putouts and 88 assists) for an more than Gehrig, who had 68 and however, a United States publication with a large circula. point for mining activity. "Liberty" in its January 25 issue says:

It seems to be pretty generally agreed and understood that the United States not only should not, but never will, annex Canada.

Perhaps our schools do not broadcast as widely as they might the fact that we have tried twice to take Canadaonce during the Revolution and once during the war of in B. C. mining activities. The while making 221 putouts and 270 1812—and failed both times. Well, twice is enough. It is fortunate no doubt that we did fail, and we are not going to try again.

However, if we are not going to annex Canada why wouldn't it be a good thing for Canada to annex us? There this province. are a number of things to be said in favor of union.

This continent is a natural integer. The boundaries be- Kept Alive by tween the United States and Canada are for the most part imaginary lines. And Manitoba and North Dakota are far more homogeneous in the general occupation, character, and speech of their inhabitants than are North Dakota and Louisiana.

Form of Government

The Canadians already have a form of government well himself completely hemmed in by 50 chances in 49 games, George Walsuited for us to join. Their provinces and our states are huge snowdrifts. It was about 5 berg 60 in 40 games and Lloyd closely akin in character.

We could have our winter capital at Washington and our summer one at Ottawa, which would be a great improvement over things as they are now. Washington is a into the drifts in an attempt to 749 chances for an average of .983, to make 1,000 and take 100 the church made splendid progress terrible place in summer.

Empire Question

There is then the question of Great Britain.

As a matter of fact, the connection there is now largely patriotic. The Canadians govern themselves to virtually as great an extent as do we. They exchange ministers with foreign countries and even levy tariffs on British-made products.

To all intents and purposes Canada is now a nation independent of Great Britain. It may be so even in foreign affairs, for the Canadians have direct representation with foreign governments and do not need to act through the British government.

It is hard to foresee what the future will bring in this respect, but the shiftings of political gravity may produce some day some form of alliance of English-speaking peoples as a matter of self-protection.

Should that day ever come it would be natural to expect that the political centre of gravity—the capital or capitals-would be on this side of the ocean.

We each play a part in the scheme of the universe even if only the part of the horrible example.
