In Prince Rupert

February 14, 1910

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is protesting to the provincial government at having to pay three-quarters of $25,000 to be allowed on construction of new sewers in Section One.

J. M. Walters, representative of the B. C. Mainland Industrial Co., told the Prince Rupert Board of Trade that his company expected to spend $1,500,000 in developing interior coal fields and erecting a smelter and coke plant. Prince Rupert is being considered as the site for the plant.

The Wanderers' Club has been organized among local young men and has taken quarters over C. B. Wark's new store on Third Avenue, the premises being commodious and elaborately furnished.
