Ford Windshield Resists Blow of Iron Horseshoe

A HORSESHOE may be lucky for some people, but for Mrs. E. Holtman, of St. Louis, Mo., it might have been very unlucky had it not been for the shatterless glass in the windshield of her Ford sedan. Mrs. Holtman was driving along a concrete suburban highway when suddenly the horseshoe struck the windshield and lodged snugly in the shatterless glass. It was a lucky break for Mrs. Holtman and the two adults and three children who accompanied her, for not one of them was hurt. The car continued for 165 miles with the proverbial lucky
