USE SMALL SEAPLANES

Britain's Attempt at Third Victory in Seaplane Race Will Be Made With New Type of Ships

LONDON, June 5.—Two tiny little seaplanes, each bearing the somewhat ordinary appellation of "S7," will carry the Union-Jack in the Schneider Cup Races, emblematic of the seaplane championship of the world, on September 12. And each of the tiny speedsters will, by the time they are ready for the race, have cost Great Britain many thousands of dollars.

The two ships, Supermarine monoplane, are being built for the contest alone. In them will be embodied all the lessons learned by airplane and engine designers in preparing for previous contests, and one of them seems likely at the moment to prove itself the fastest vehicle in the world. Whispers of 400 miles per hour are in the air. Quiet and confident members of the "high speed squad" which will pilot the two machines lend strength to the rumors.

Three Contestants

This year, only Great Britain, Italy and France will participate in the contest, and as yet little is known of the latter two countries' entries for the race.

The British team is at Calshot at present, undergoing the special training necessary to fly the fast machines. Six different types of fast airplanes are being used for the practice. Three of them are pure speed craft built primarily for participation in the Schneider contests of 1927 and 1929. They are the Gloster IV biplane of 1927, modified since the contest at Venice that year to make it more suitable for practice flying; the Supermarine S5 monoplane, winner of the 1927 event; and the Gloster VI built in 1929. The other machines are Fairey service biplanes on floats; oldest of them being the justly celebrated "Flycatcher" for several years the standard shipfighter of the Fleet Air Arm and nowadays the high speed pilot's usual introduction to seaplane fighting. The other Fairey craft are a "Fleetwing," two seat fleet fighter, and a "Firefly," single seater, both of them comparatively new machines which in their respective classes are among the world's fastest and most efficient airplanes.

Members of the high speed crew are enthusiastic about their chances. Physically and mentally, they measure up to the finest type of British airmen. No attempt is made to impose rigid dietary or other restrictions on them. They are simply expected to keep fit. Smoking is almost entirely given up, and alcohol is usually dropped.

GUN CLUB HAS MEET

Reversion Back to Former Season For Shooting Migratory Birds Is Being Asked

The Prince Rupert Rod & Gun Club held its annual meeting last night in the City Hall and elected officers as follows for the ensuing year:

Honorary President, Game Warden Thomas Van Dyk.
President, J. E. Boddie.
Vice-President, A. A. McEwen.
Secretary-Treasurer, F. W. Grimble.
Executive, George W. Johnstone and A. Ivarson.

Several resolutions were passed for submission to the Game Commissioner, the principal one being that which asks that the migratory bird hunting season be changed back from September 15-December 31 to October 15-January 31. The club originally asked for the earlier season but has found that it was not as satisfactory as was expected.

SOFTBALL CHALLENGE

Team Which Defeated C. N. R. Recently is Vanquished

The High School softball team, which won from the C. N. R. on Wednesday, was promptly challenged by another team at the school on Thursday. A keenly contested game resulted. The last inning found the score eight all. Two extra innings were forced before the challengers were finally able to win by a score of 12-11. Dominato and Church comprised the challenger's battery. Allen and Vance acted for the others.

Challengers, Morrison, Welle, Dominato, Arney, Church, Kanaya, Bussanich, Obata, Blake, Gillis.
Other team, Allen, Thurber, W. Tobey, C. Smith, Moxley, Unger, Vance, Stinech, Hanson.

DOOM OF BIG FIRS

Will Not Last More Than Twenty Years Minister Believes

VICTORIA, June 5.—Within 20 years the only big Douglas fir trees in British Columbia will be found in parks, according to Hon. Nels Lougheed, minister of lands and for many years prominent as a logger in this province.

"If our export trade in Douglas fir continues to expand as it has in recent years, the doom of the big trees will be even earlier," Mr. Lougheed predicted, adding that 15 years was probably not a too liberal estimate.

Mr. Lougheed stated that plans were being considered to expand the export trade in hemlock, cedar and pine, by interesting foreign timber buyers in varieties which can satisfactorily replace Douglas fir.

"The Conservation Committee of 1912 estimated the annual growth of timber at 5,000,000,000 feet. There could not be a more misleading statement. A forest grows to maturity and stands there. It may stand for a million years but there would be no increase in the board measurement available after the maximum capacity of the soil has been attained," he pointed out.

"We need trade extension to prolong the life of our stand of Douglas fir. If we can push hemlock into the foreign market we can extend the life of our Douglas fir reserves. There is nothing surer than that these Douglas fir forests are going to disappear unless we push other woods into consumption," he warned.

Twenty Years Ago

S. Leussos, seaman on the steamer British Columbia, sustained serious injuries this morning when the boom of the vessel snapped and struck him on the head. He is being attended by Dr. C. A. Eggert.

The civic court of revision on the municipal assessment roll, consisting of Mayor Manson, Ald. V. W. Smith, Ald. J. A. Kirkpatrick, Ald. C. B. Clayton and Ald. J. H. Hilditch, is now in session. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. has appealed all its assessments on the grounds that they are "grossly excessive."

Fifty-three local laborers, who will be witnesses for the defence at the trial in Victoria of local strikers on charges arising out of the recent "Battle of Kelly's Cut," sailed this morning on the Prince George for the south.

FISH GLUE DISCUSSED

Vancouver Province Writes Editorial About Research Work Here

Of what use is a fish head or a fish skin? Not very much, when the fish needs it no longer, one is apt to say, though those who have been about canneries will remember seeing the Indian women carrying choice heads home to be turned to account by frugal cooking, says the Vancouver Province editorially.

From Ottawa, however, comes word in a fisheries news bulletin that fish heads and skins are finding a place in industry. Research is showing the way. In Nova Scotia, 3465 gallons of glue were made last year from cod, cusk and haddock waste. In British Columbia there is no manufacture of fish glue on a commercial scale, though experiments have been made with the heads of salmon and halibut. So far, the greatest success has been obtained from the halibut. A glue made at the Fisheries Experimental Station at Prince Rupert showed a sheer strength of 2500 pounds per square inch when tested in the Forest Products Laboratory at the University of British Columbia.

British Columbia fisheries produced about 26,000,000 pounds of halibut and 216,000,000 pounds of salmon last year. How many halibut heads there were we do not know, but there were probably enough to make a good many gallons of glue. The fisheries department says 37,000,000 salmon were caught. As for the prospective market, Canada imports something over 2,000,000 pounds of glue a year.
