The germs have come from touching things that other people touch. People who have a cold, the "flu" perhaps, and have maybe coughed or breathed into their hands. Other germ diseases

We cannot escape those germs. We cannot avoid mingling with people and touching the things they have touched, or shaking their hands. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases, many very dangerous, which may be conveyed in this way.

Your hands, laden with germs, touch food, some fruit, or a candy which you are conveying to your mouth. The gams enter your system and start trouble.

More Than Safety

Here is something worth thinking about. The safe way is to kill those germs before they reach your mouth. Wash your hands often with the soap that contains a germicide. That soap is Lifebuoy.

Think of the Family

Wash your hands often with Lifebuoy. Teach the children to do so too. Safety from germs lies that way. Laboratory tests prove that Lifebuoy's germicide kills germs or makes them inactive.

No perfume in Lifebuoy but an extra-clean scent of safety that tells you it purifies. Yet it vanishes in a few moments and leaves you safe - and protected.

Let all your household benefit by Lifebuoy's protection against germs. Always keep a cake on the wash basin. Have the children wash often, and always before a meal. Keep germs off the hands. A bath with Lifebuoy beautifies the complexion and makes one safe from body odours for many hours.

Seattle Indians Had Very Bad Day

Defeated By Missions 12 to 5 in Opening Game of Season at Home Town

SEATTLE, April 22-It was another "off day" for the Seattle Indians yesterday when they made their initial appearance of the Pacific Coast League season in the home town and were defeated 15 to 5 by the Mission Reds. The weather was unfavorable and maybe that was why the Indians made four errors while Dutch Reuther was batted from the mound in the seventh after thirteen hits had been scored against him. Other Pacific Coast League scores were: Los Angeles, 8: Oakland, 7.

Portland. 4: Hollywood. 3. San Francisco, 11; Sacramento.
