

He Stole a Girl and Killed Her

He deposits her remains and runs. But a mark on the wheel says, "I did it."

He left his Mark—and it Convicted him

Walter Hickman, Los Angeles, kidnapped a girl from school. He killed her. Then he demanded $1,500 from her father for ransom. The father paid on a dark corner at night. Hickman drove away; the father found a dismembered body left by Hickman in a sack.

But Hickman's auto stalled, and on the steering wheel he found his finger prints.

In the Los Angeles police department those finger-prints were registered for a previous crime. So they knew the man, they had his picture, and they caught him up in Oregon in three days. Result—this despicable criminal was punished by death in the chair.

Be Careful of Your Marks

You are not a criminal, but you leave your finger-prints on every thing you touch. Those prints are germ-laden, and they all present danger.

You have gathered them by touching things which other hands have touched. You have clasped hands with other hands which, for instance, have checked a sneeze laden with cold germs. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in that way.

Touch a piece of bread, a candy, and you leave that dangerous imprint on it, unless your hands are clean. And a few germs multiply to millions quickly.

The safe way is to wash hands often, and always before a meal. Not with ordinary soap, but with Lifebuoy Soap, which contains a germicide. There is every proof that no active germs can exist after its application.

But that isn't all. You smell the pleasant germicide for a minute, then it disappears. There remains only the odour of utter cleanliness. Then you have only the effects of a supreme beauty soap, the finest that men have created. A soap, based on two palm oils, which has won its way to top place as a complexion soap. And a bath soap.

Lifebuoy Soap combines a germicide with the factors that you love. Here you have both safety and service of the highest order.

Keep a cake of Lifebuoy handy by the wash basin. Urge the family to use it. Make it easy for them to benefit by Lifebuoy's wonderful protection. Your nearest dealer sells it.

WILL RUSSIA DOMINATE THE WORLD?

Is a New Era Dawning?

Will Russia's great upheaval in economics fail or succeed? If it succeeds, how will it affect the civilized world? Every well-read person today is more than generally interested in these questions and it is timely that the inside story of the great Russian social and industrial upheaval has been photographed, as it were, by the mind of a man who has made it a personal study and then written it down for the world to read.

The Truth About Russia

Maurice Hindus, Russian by birth, North American by adoption, has studied economic Russia during the past seven years. He has set down facts dispassionately but with the eye of an artist. He takes you through the labyrinths of the great human problem today being dramatized in Russia. He tells you about the Russian, his property, family, morals; he gives you a picture of Russian peasantry, the proletariat and the intelligentsia; the Cossack, the Jew, Russian women—all the elements he has noted that play a role in Russia, greatest of all world dramas.

Read Maurice Hindus' exciting but none the less educative revelations in the Vancouver Sun commencing February 15th. Delivered by carrier or mail—50c a month. Write direct to the Vancouver Sun, Vancouver, B.C. or your local agent—Lee J. Dell, Box 281, Prince Rupert, B.C., Green 732.

New Building For Library Is Discussed

At the meeting of the Library Board last night, Frank Dibb presiding, J. J. Gillis suggested that this year the board should seriously consider the erection of a new building. He thought a frame building with stucco at an approximate cost of $12,000 would answer the purpose and a good site would be that alongside the City Hall on Fulton Street. If located there it might be heated from the present heating system in the City Hall.

Chairman Dibb said Mr. Gillis' remarks were timely. He thought the board should formulate a policy in regard to the building.

Mr. Basso-Bert said that a solid concrete building would cost very little if any more than a frame building and it would be absolutely fireproof.

The discussion was continued by Mr. Black and others after which it was decided to give it more consideration before appointing a committee to formulate plans.

Permanent officers for the year will be elected at the next meeting.

Account of Local Man's Wedding in South Recently

The following from the Vancouver Province describes the wedding last week of Miss Isabel Garland of Vancouver and Bert Fitzpatrick of this city:

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, 2255 West Fifteenth on January 26, when Isabel Katherine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Garland, became the bride of Bertram M. Fitzpatrick, only son of Mrs. N. A. Regan of Seattle. Rev. George O. Fallis officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of electric blue crepe and georgette. Her corsage bouquet was of pink roses and lily of the valley, and her only attendant was her sister Hazel, who was attired in a dress of apple green georgette. The groom was supported by J. Herbert, while F. A. Garland, brother of the bride, acted as usher. Little Miss Doris May Garland, in peach crepe and lace, opened the door for the guests, and during the signing of the register Mrs. E. Deane sang "O Promise Me."

After the ceremony a buffet supper was served, when a three-tier wedding cake centred the table, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and silver vases filled with pink rosebuds and gipsophela. The rooms had been beautifully decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of pink and white, and during the reception the bridal party stood under an arch which suspended a floral bell. Mrs. F. M. Garland, mother of the bride, and Mrs. N. A. Regan, the groom's mother, assisted in receiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick later left by boat for Prince Rupert, where they will reside.

CIRCULATION REACHES 7312

First Time Citizens Have Borrowed Seven Thousand Books in One Month

The report of the librarian at the meeting of the Library Board last night showed that the circulation of books during the month reached the total of 7312 made up of fiction, 4,537; duplicate pay, 195; non-fiction, 857; juvenile, 1,723.

New borrowers during January numbered 66 while 32 cards were cancelled.

Three books were received by gift and 93 by purchase while 17 were discarded leaving a total collection of 7,733 volumes.

Estimates for the year were passed, those present being Frank Dibb, chairman, V. Basso-Bert, H. F. Pullen, J. J. Gillis, T. B. Black and Miss Cruikshank.

The chairman formally welcomed Mr. Black to the board and spoke of the excellent work done there by his father.

Ripple Rock Is Condemned

Many Northern Skippers Testify in Inquiry in Vancouver Regarding Obstruction

Among well known northern skippers who testified last week at the Ripple Rock inquiry in Vancouver were Capt. Andrew Johnstone, Capt. Dan Donald, Commander B. L. Johnson, Capt. A. J. Edgecombe, Capt. F. T. Saunders and Capt. A. J. Gilbert. All urged the removal of the rock and strenuously protested at any move to build a structure on the rock such as piers or abutments for a bridge across Seymour Narrows.

PROTEST TO BE WIRED TO WASHINGTON

A protest to be made in Washington, D.C., against the proposed international treaty giving the members of the mixed commission power to regulate halibut fishing, the question of wire vs. web spillers, and a protest to be made against natives being given exclusive dockage rights in Thomas basin, figured at the noon meeting of the Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce recently. The meeting was held at the Knickerbocker Cafe.

A wire from the Anchorage Chamber of Commerce asking the Ketchikan chamber to protest against the raise of rates on the Alaska railway was referred to the executive committee for action.

The following wire was received from Dan Sutherland, delegate from Alaska in Congress:

"Regarding your letter of January 3 have discussed matter of trap spillers with bureau of fisheries and learn that they are considering modification of order. They will decide and inform trap holders before time arrives to purchase webbing for 1931 season."

The delegate also advised under date of January 7 by letter in relation to the international treaty, which seeks to give the international fisheries commission power to regulate halibut fishing, in which he said:

"I assure you of my strongest opposition to this treaty and that when the senate committee on foreign relations has its hearing, I shall be on hand to oppose its ratification."

The house bill No. 15065, granting certain rights to the natives in Thomas basin under the name of the Alaska Native Brotherhood was made a special order of business. After a full discussion it was decided to wire Delegate Sutherland, the public lands committee and the secretary of the interior protesting against the passage of the bill.
