FUNERAL OF MRS. RORVIK

Well Known Local Woman Laid to Rest This Afternoon After Service in B.C. Chapel

Many friends of deceased and her sorrowing family gathered at the chapel of the B. C. Undertakers this afternoon to pay final tributes of respect and esteem to the late Mrs. Ted Rorvik, whose death occurred suddenly at the end of last week. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, who spoke fittingly. Hymns were h "Lead Kindly Light" and "The Sands of Time Are Sinking." John E. Davey presided at the organ.

After the service, interment was! made in Fairview Cemetery, a long procession following the cortege to the final resting place. Pallbearers, members of the Moose order of which the widower is a prominent member, were James L. Lee, Jack Preece, E. C. Hopen, J. M. Morrison, Bert Johnson and Jonas Thompson. There were many floral offerings.

SPEAKER

Presbyterian Young People's Society Hears Interesting Address on Marine Natural Life

Canon W. F. Rushbrook was an interesting speaker last evening at the fortnightly meeting of the Young People's Society of First Presbyterian Church, his subject being "Marine Natural Life." Canon Rushbrook dealt particularly with the parasite known as the toredo.

There were about thirty-three members present at the meeting over which the president of the society. E. J. Smith, presided. The proceedings closed with a recreational period, with the pastor, Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth, in charge.

BROTHER'S BROTHER" RA-THER THAN "KEEPER"

would be required. If the student was to be self-governing, he must be prepared to exhibit a large measure of good judgment and moral stability.

Applying the principle of "I am my brother's brother" to industry Mr. Hollingworth declared that there was a social and economic solidarity from which there could be no escape. The talents of all were needed. Those members of he industrial body who were less conspicious were needed. It was only when this was fully realized that there was industrial peace and prosperity. No man was rien enough, wise enough or good enough to take upon himself to be some other man's keeper. Employees preferred to have their wages paid to them and to be a lowed to provide for their ow, welfare as they may see fit. The management could not say that it was the employees' keeper.

Mr. Hollingworth then referred to the growing demand for a mora democratic spirit in the control of the great industries. Shop committees and shop conferences beween management and men were becoming increasingly common. the man who invested his five alents of capital and administrative ability had clear right to be heard and considered in the control of the concern. Also the plain men and women, who invested their best talents of muscle and skill, had a right to be heard and considered.

Two Together

If two hands got along better; 18c when they acted together, each one supplementing the work of the other, if two eyes got on better when they acted together, it two feet got along better when they moved along together, who not two men or classes of men. employees and employers, or two races of men, or two nations?

> Referring to the growing demand for a more equitable distribution of the good things of life, the joint product of brain and brawn between those who toiled main:y with their hands and those wno toiled mainly with their heads, the speaker did not approve of an equal distribution for it seemed morally justifiable as well as economically desirable that exceptional ability should receive an exceptional reward. But there should be a more equitable distribution which could not be made accordto some ironclad rule of supply and demand. There must be a steady regard to human values involved in the huge economic pro-

"Of this we may be sure," concluded the speaker, "if that final social order of which we dream and for which we pray is ever to be realized, it will only come as 400 man learns to say: "We are Brothers.' Let us take hold together 25c and, not in selfish antagonism but in friendly co-operation, let us 25c move together towards better economic methods."
