Jellicoe and Militarism.

Admiral Jellicoe says that he is not going to suggest militarism, but we must face facts. The existence of the Empire depends on her sea power.

Very many people would like to be living in a time when there would be no war or preparation for war. Unhappily, however, we come of a fighting race in a fighting world. Our ancestors were trained in the school where the survival of the fittest obtained and where the one that did not fight was sent into oblivion.

There is a lot of fighting to do in private life as well as military and the man or woman who cannot fight is not worth much in this life. Perhaps the same is true of a nation.

London Times And Spiritualism.

Discussing Spiritualism the London Times says editorially: "The Church Congress, debating spiritualism, and the Archbishop of Canterbury promising an inquiry into its pretensions by Bishops, were on dangerous ground. Human longing for continuity of existence beyond the grave, for communion with the dead, and for piercing through phenomena into reality is perennial. The Christian religion offers a satisfaction of its own to these cravings. But it rests its proud claim not on a utilitarian adaptation to the needs of the human heart, but on revealed truth. It is derogatory to Christian theology, and a weak tribute to the pretensions of mediums, that the vogue of spiritualism should have been discussed from a competitive standpoint. Nor, unless it be admitted that the claims of the Church and of spiritualism are of the same order, do Bishops form a suitable court of inquiry. We do not think that any special court of inquiry is necessary."

"We have no wish to burn Sir Oliver Lodge or Sir Arthur Conan Doyle lest they beguile the weak by substituting asseveration for evidence. They proclaim the existence of people with two powers, the power of raising spirits and the power of foretelling the future. We cannot go far enough back in history to find a period in which these claims were not made, believed in by many foolish and a few who passed as wise, or supported by a cloud of witnesses. In fact, despite what was said at the Church Congress, the real fact is that the farther back we go the more general the belief and the more assured the evidence in support of it."

"The spirits raised by contemporary methods are no more impressive, give no more illuminating glimpses of the supernatural world or more certain predictions of the future, than those raised by primitive or medieval rites. Moreover, notwithstanding the apparent opinion of Mr. Banks, we think it probable that, while there were many fraudulent witches, there were plenty who honestly believed that they had sold their souls to the devil and had been paid the price. What is new is the theory that there is a new method, the method known as spiritualism, dating from Swedenborg, as Canon Edmund McClure reminded his audience. We are disposed to think the spiritualistic theory logically inferior to that of inspiration by the devil, especially in the matter of telling fortunes or predicting the future. If evidence be ever available that a medium can, with fair regularity, beat a good racing tipster or advise us beforehand of one or two important and apparently improbable events, we shall be ready to consider a grave metaphysical opinion on the probable source of the information. In the meantime, on the matter of evidence as to alleged phenomena, we should have little confidence in the judgment of Bishops, and should prefer that of conjurers with regard to fraud, of pathologists with regard to the 'sub-conscious self,' and that of average men with regard to telepathy."

For three years the little son of G. Romanuk, of Edenbridge, suffered with a bad attack of eczema, which everything failed to cure until they used Zam-Buk. The father, writing to the Zam-Buk Co., says:

"For three years my little son suffered with a severe attack of eczema, which many doctors pronounced incurable. For two years the sores on his eyes and forehead were so bad that he was unable to see. We tried everything, but without any benefit and he was in a shocking condition when Rabbi Shalitt recommended Zam-Buk. This wonderful ointment has entirely cured my boy, and I cannot express my gratitude for his marvellous recovery."

Zam-Buk is also unequalled for ringworm, scalp sores, salt rheum, old wounds, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, cuts, scalds, and all skin injuries. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for postage on FREE trial box.
