FORGET THE BLUES

Prince Rupert people now have no cause to be pessimistic. Conditions are improving. The fishing business is back to normal and very soon the city will feel the benefit. Industries dependent on the fishing industry will also be reacting and we shall see better times ahead. Work is commencing on the highway in a small way, building is improving and the number of unemployed has been cut down. It is now some weeks since relief has been given out except in a few isolated cases.

It must not be assumed from this that Prince Rupert is a place for people looking for work. There are more men here now than can be provided for and it does not seem likely that at any time this summer there will be more jobs offering than men to take them. All we suggest is that people throw off that pessimistic attitude and get down to the realization that Prince Rupert is really a city with a future.

SALT LAKES PARK

Salt Lakes Park is being improved by the provincial government, following in this respect in the footsteps of the former government. It now remains for the city to reorganize the swimming club and do their part at the swimming pool. This is desirable if the young people are to have the full advantage of this splendid resort.

Owing to the highway construction and the diversion of traffic in that direction by auto traffic, interest in Salt Lakes Park has dropped off very much of late years, but now there seems to be a return to the desire for swimming and the Salt Lakes will undoubtedly be a centre of attraction.

SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRIES

Insofar as possible it is always good policy to support home industries. We suggest that people buy home produced lumber, use Queen Charlotte Island shingles, order from the grocer Queen Charlotte Island clams, eat local caught fresh salmon or halibut or the canned product from the neighborhood. For local people to buy Japanese canned goods when there are better qualities packed right at home seems unreasonable and not good business.

Honors were even in the second inning each side scoring two men. Green and W. Murray for one side, McRae and Kanaya for the other. The third inning was Smith's. Hickey and Marshall scored. Tobey's side was quickly retired by a double play, Green to Hickey to Green.
