Prince Is Linguist; Speaks In Spanish

Tells Argentine Club Visit to Buenos Ayres Is to Open British Exhibition

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Prince of Wales displayed part of his linguistic accomplishments at a dinner of the Argentine Club at the Savoy Hotel recently, when he delivered a large portion of his speech in Spanish. He mentioned that by a coincidence it was exactly five years since he was a guest of the club upon his return from his first visit to the South American continent. "This time," he said, "my visit to your club is of special significance to me because in a few weeks I will be on my second journey to South America."

The Prince said he had recently been reading some of the popular poems of the Argentine and there remained in his memory a couple of verses by Santos Vega which he quoted. In conclusion he expressed a sincere wish of prosperity to the Argentine. The main object of his visit, his Royal Highness explained, was to open the British Trade Exhibition in Buenos Ayres, the first entirely British exhibition ever staged in a foreign country.

APPRECIATES PAPER

An Ocean Falls subscriber writes: "We have enjoyed the paper very much. You cover the world and do not load up your readers with a lot of padding. Your editorials are fair and sane at all times. For those of us whose work and interest is north of Queen Charlotte Sound the local news is of special value. Every success to you."

Wallace C. Orchard, general agent here for the Canadian Pacific Railway, will return to the city next week after a two months' visit in Vancouver.
