ONCE MORE THE P. G. E.

The P. G. E. will not down. Just when we think it has been squelched, up it comes again. Today we are told that the government is negotiating for its sale and extension into the Peace River and the Premier announces that the government is considering the proposals favorably.

The only way any syndicate will take over the P. G. E. is if it is sweetened with thousands of acres of public lands and millions of dollars worth of timber and mines. Proposals of this nature have been made from time to time but so far the government has declined to give away so much of the natural heritage as was asked. We give them credit for their actions so far. Pressure has been brought to bear but they have resisted.

Now it looks as if they were considering one of these proposals favorably and putting the announcement along with T. D. Pattullo's warning that an election may be called soon, it looks as if the government would ask for endorsation of the scheme if it is finally accepted. That would agive them a campaign issue under cloud of which the fin-"ancial issue might be escaped.

PORTEND OF PROSPERITY

It is an indication of returning prosperity when we see groups of men offering to put large sums of money into a scheme such as the taking over of the P. G. E. and its extension into Vancouver and into the Peace River country. This sort of thing is not done on a falling market. It is only done at a time when there is likely to be a general improvement.

While everyone would like to see huge sums of money spent on development work, the deal would have to be a reasonable one to be acceptable to the people of the province. Even Vancouver would hardly support a scheme which meant the robbing of the province for generations to come.

Developments in connection with the P. G. E. will be interesting, especially in view of the fact that it may become an election issue.

WHEAT SITUATION

The decline in the price of wheat the last few days was rather a surprise and is not expected to prove permanent. There are several reason why the price should advance.

World wheat acreages have declined drastically. In three countries alone-Australia, Argentina and the United States-there are going out of production in this current cereal year no fewer than thirteen million acres of wheat lands. This drastic reduction is the equivalent of the entire expansion that occurred in the three countries named, and Canada as well, between 1926 and 1930.

But not only acreage is declining, prospective yields are down. Preliminary estimates indicate a world crop this year, exclusive of Russia and China, which will be some two hundred million bushels less than in 1930. To this may be added the fact that the estimated crop in rye is one hundred and fifty million bushels below that of last year.

Under these circumstances it seems as if wheat were bound to advance in price, possibly until it reaches close to a dollar a bushel.
