KICKS ABOUT WORK

Editor, Daily News:-

In the Evening Empire of March 21 I read the following in big head-lines: "Everyone given chance to DISORDER work." I wonder if the editor of the Empire has not been misinformed. Personally I know of several men who were not given a chance either on the city or on the government Thirty Killed in Protest Rioting at the ropes and I will vouch for that they should have had the privilege ahead of those who were sent out. Some had a chance to go out on the road three times this winter. Most Thirty persons were killed and more of these spent their money with than one hundred injured in riotprivileged rum dealers.

There are quite a number of the execution of Barat Singh and people in this city who are depend- two companions at Lahore on Moning on manual labor for a living, day for the murder of a police ofand to pay taxes, but it appears as ficial. if the fellow who pays $25 or takes 30 days is looked after first. Until the homebuilder gets a reasonable protection the whole community will suffer.

Great Men of Canadian Pacific

As long as the Dominion endures,

Van Horne

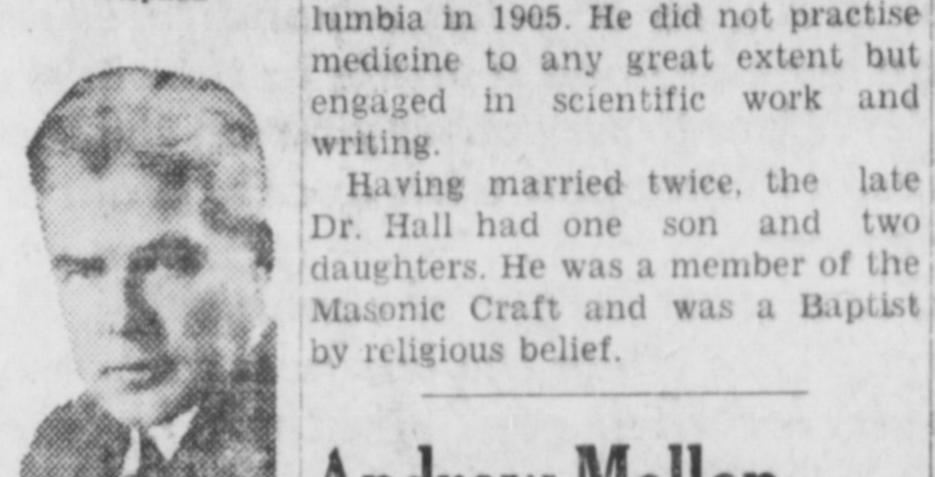

George Stephen, (later Lord Mountstephen); William Van Horne, (afterwards knighted); and Thomas Shaughnessy, (subsequently a knight and a baron); will have their niches in its hall of fame, for to them and to Donald Smith, (afterwards Lord Strathcona); R. B. Angus and J. J. Hill, it owes the great Canadian Pacific Railway Company of today. E. W. Beatty K.C., is the president of the great system today.

These are the principal figures in the history of Canada's great pioneer railway. Each played an important part in the development of the road, Canada's first transcontinental. In 1871, terms were entered into to start the road within two years and complete it within ten. As a matter of fact. the last spike on the main line was driven on November 7, 1885 by Lord Strathcona.

At the little mountain station of Craigellachie, B.C., on November 7, 1885, Donald A. Smith, later Lord Strathcona, drove the last spike in the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in the presence of a little knot of officials and workmen who had contributed to the construction of Canada's Confederation Railroad.

NEW QUEEN OF "WHITE EMPRESSES"

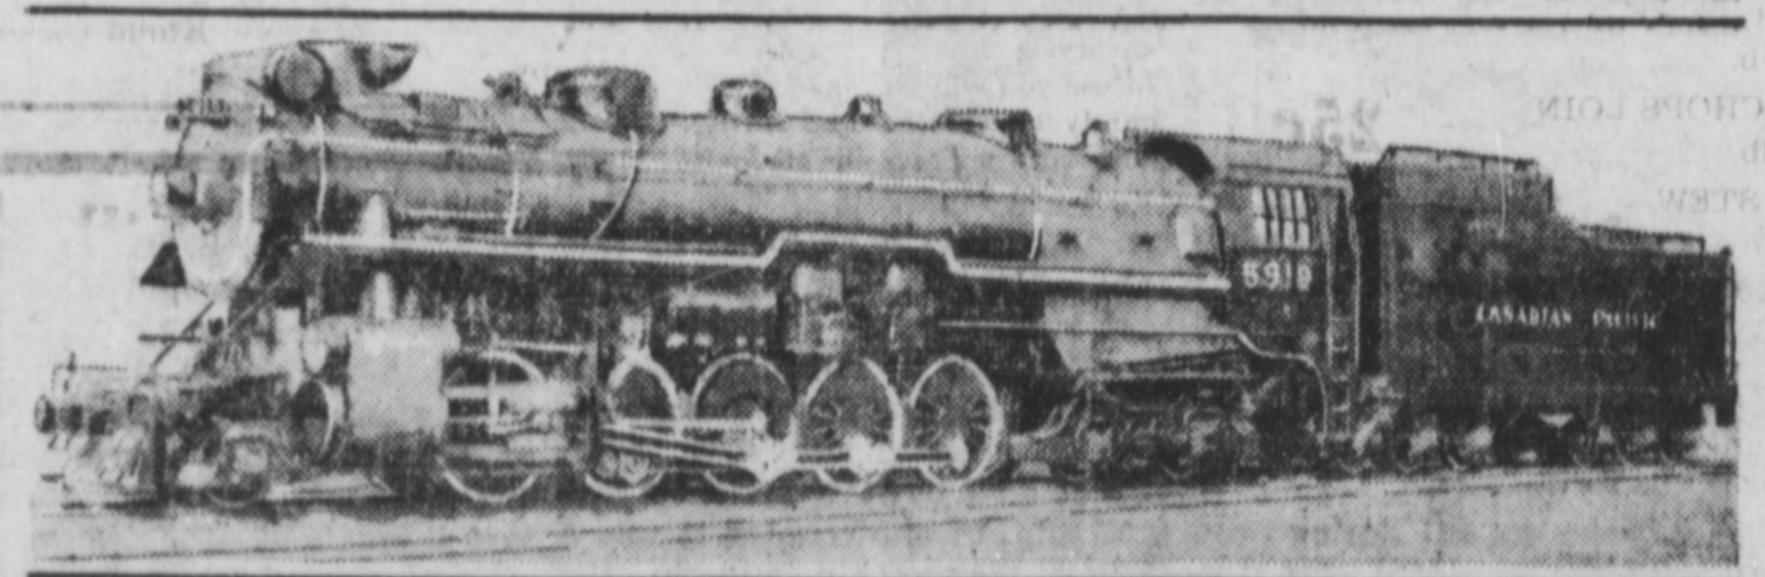

The new 42,500-ton "Empress of Britain", of which a scale model is shown above, due to enter the St. Lawrence route service this spring, will be the last word in travel comfort, as well as speed, and is expected to be a strong contender for the pennant of the trans-Atlantic run against the giant ships in the New York trade.

VETERAN OF THEM ALL

"5900" LOCOMOTIVE IS EMBODIMENT OF POWER

The great locomotive shown above is one of a fleet of 20 now in service through the Rocky Mountains, where their enormous tractive power has revolutionized traffic conditions. Note the turned back cowl on the smokestack. This is necessary to allow passage of the monster of the rails through tunnels.
