STEAMBOAT HEAD DIES

Capt. J. W. Troup Passes Away in Victoria Today at Age of Seventy-Six

Was Manager of C. P. R. Coast Steamships For Long Period of Years

VICTORIA, Nov. 30.—Capt. James William Troup, for the past sixty years identified with shipping development on the Pacific Coast and for 26 years manager of the British Columbia Coast Steamship Service of the Canadian Pacific Railway, died today from heart failure following a three weeks' illness with bronchitis.

The funeral of the late Capt. Troup, who was born in Portland, Ore., on February 5, 1855, will take place on Wednesday.

The late Capt. Troup entered steamship service in 1872 and was successively purser, pilot and master with the Oregon Steam Navigation Co. From 1875 to 1883 he was master of steamers of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. and from 1883 to 1892 was master of steamers of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Co. In 1892 he returned to the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. as superintendent of water lines and held that position until 1897 when he became manager of the Columbia & Kootenay Steamship Navigation. From 1899 until 1901 he held the post of superintendent of Columbia & Kootenay steamers of the Canadian Pacific Railway. After holding the post of superintendent of railway and steamship lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway with headquarters at Nelson for a short time he was promoted to the managership of the British Columbia Coast Steamship Service at Victoria in 1901, holding that post until 1928 when he retired and was succeeded by Capt. C. D. Nureutos. Capt. Troup was also a member of the Dominion Lighthouse Board.

Besides his widow, the late Capt. Troup is succeeded by one son and one daughter. He was a member of the Anglican Church and his principal recreation was motoring.

VESSEL IS DESTROYED

Steamer Alameda Burns at Seattle—Was Valued at $600,000

SEATTLE, Nov. 30.—The veteran steamer Alameda of the Alaska Steamship Co.'s fleet, valued at $600,000, was totally destroyed by a fire of mysterious origin which broke out aboard her on Saturday. The vessel took fire at her berth at Pier 2 and she was towed to Harbor Island and beached. There she was virtually consumed.

The Alameda had been operated for 20 years or more on the Alaska run and, in the early days, was a very popular ship. For years she held the speed record between Seattle and Ketchikan. Before coming on the Alaska run, she operated out of San Francisco.

BAD CHECK MEN GONE

"Capt. R. M. Sharp and Major Mike Quinn" Sought in States

SEATTLE, Nov. 30.—Police are searching for two men posing as United States Army reserve officers and giving the names of Captain R. M. Sharpe and Major Mike Quinn, who have disappeared after leaving a trail of bad checks from here to New York.

The two men mainly victimized army officers and obtained thousands of dollars fraudulently. Their names are said to be not shown in military records.

LETTERS FROM SANTA CLAUS

North Pole, November 30, 1931

Dear Prince Rupert Children:— Tomorrow is the first day of December, so I have to begin to think about getting my big pack ready for Christmas. I have heard people say times are bad, but I shall be there just as usual. Bad times don't worry me.

I must talk over my trip with Mrs. Santa. She knows more about what the very little folks like and will help me a lot in choosing the gifts. Yes, it's only a little over three weeks now, and such a lot to do.

Look out for me, young people. I shall be there on the evening of December 24, the night before Christmas.
