REGIMENT WON GAME

Merchants' Football Team Again Fails to Put in Appearance

For the second Sunday in succession the Merchants' football club failed to field a team and the Stuart Shield fixture went to the Regiment yesterday. Only two of the Merchants' team turned up, Amor and McKay, and a team was made up including Bussanich, Webster, Youngman, Vance and several of the unemployed who have been practising when they are unable to get work.

The first half was evenly contested with Youngman doing good work in goal and Mahoney defending well. The sympathies of the spectators were naturally enough with the "scrub" team, but they failed to score with the hill and sun in their favor, though P. Gomez nearly gave away a goal in saving a dangerous raid. McKay and Vance showed up well.

The second half was all in favor of the Regiment, who scored five goals, Hunt getting three, Wilson one and a centre from Walters being turned past Youngman by Mahoney. Towards the end Smith got away on the right and beat his namesake with a shot from a very fine angle.

It is to be regretted that the Merchants' committee and team cannot get out players for the Stuart Shield. The proceeds from the sale of tickets is entirely set aside for helping to pay medical expenses of players hurt in games. It is up to the club to back up the association and to the players to back up their committee by turning out. Some of the players yesterday for the Regiment turned out, though they are not in favor of Sunday football, but they felt that the unusual circumstances warranted the match. If the other team will not turn out they cannot expect the support of the public and they can hardly expect the association to take the responsibility of trying to carry on each season. These same players who do not turn up are very likely the ones that would be most anxious to have their medical expenses paid if they met with any injury.

BACK FROM PEACE TRIP

the Parsnip and the Finlay enter the Peace.

Up to this time the party had been able to stay with the boat but in the Peace where it crosses the Rocky Mountains, they found it desirable to line the boat down the rapids, two of them walking down the banks of the river and the other riding in the boat. The Doctor says the rapids were not very bad and might have been run if they had known where to steer.

The Doctor was away three weeks in all of which eleven days was spent in the boat on the rivers and lakes. It was an ideal trip with plenty of game and full of interest. They camped ashore and usually went ashore to lunch. There were no flies to bother them and "an enjoyable time was had by all."

"Matter" Subject Science Church

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday was "Matter."

Among the Bible texts included in the lesson-sermon was the following from Psalms 39:6: "Surely every man walketh in a vain show: surely they are disquieted in vain: he heapeth up riches, and knoweth not who shall gather them."

The lesson-sermon also included the reading of citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being as follows: "Christian Science explains all cause and effect as mental, not physical."

Attracted by the larger bodies of water in Manitoba, that province at present has the most ducks ever known in the vicinity of Lake Winnipeg and Lake Manitoba. The Winnipeg Evening Tribune quotes a member of a local grain company as saying: "There are more ducks in Manitoba than ever before in its history, due to the migration of the birds from the West to larger bodies of water." Duck-breeding grounds feature the large lakes of the province, and there large flocks of young ducks may be seen any day.

This applies also to the larger lakes of Saskatchewan, but the ducks in this province are not nearly so numerous as they are in Manitoba. The drought has not affected the ducks seriously, though some sportsmen in the United States have been giving the impression that ducks in the prairie provinces are in danger of extinction. They may have thought so from the fact that the number of ducks raised in pot holes and sloughs in Saskatchewan have been negligible in the past three years of drought as a result of the duck migration to larger bodies of water.

FILMS ARE HELD GOOD

LONDON, Sept. 21.—British films are higher in popularity in Australia at present than ever before, according to Melbourne correspondent of the Times, who states that British producers have captured an important part of the Australian market. Whether they retain it will depend very largely on whatever efforts they may be making now to develop a technique of the sound film akin to that which is being shaped in the United States and on the Continent of Europe.

English companies have had to overcome prejudice which for a time seemed to be insuperable. By skill in light comedy and several happy accidents they have reached a position in which their films command the longest of the "long runs" at the best theatres. But competitors are active. British producers will have to bestir themselves if they are to keep what they have gained.

As recently as two years ago the announcement that a film was British was sufficient to keep people out of Australian picture theatres. English silent films had become notorious for bad lighting, crude settings, and poor photography. Popular taste, which is by no means exacting, rebelled. Distributors of English films were probably hindered rather than helped by appeals to patriotic sentiment. Those people who went to see British films felt that they were performing a necessary but painful duty. English films, however, seldom reached the better theatres.

With the coming of talking films and the announcement that the British film industry was being reorganized both in its methods of production in England and in its system of distribution in Australia picture-goers were willing to concede producers another chance. Even then English "talkies" were slow in coming. As it proved, that was fortunate. By the time the first British films were shown audiences had become bored by the "backstage" films which Hollywood was then making with such monotonous regularity and the American accent had lost its novelty and was beginning to pall. A contrast was welcomed both by exhibitors and by audiences. Happily the first films fulfilled expectations. The system of distribution has been reorganized and British films are being given publicity in which for many years they were lacking.

JR. LEAGUE IN ACTION

High School Wins Over Booth 8 to 4 in Opener Saturday

The opening game of the Junior Football League Saturday afternoon resulted in an easy win for first year High School over Booth School, the margin of eight goals to nil flattering the winners, for there was not nearly the difference in play between the teams that the score would indicate.

The opening exchanges were even and Nelson had hard lines with a fine cross drive that just went wide. Christison was nearly as close with a cross at the other end, and then Santurbane scored for High. Morgan did well to field a high dropping shot from Ritchie. DeMarco saved the Booth goal and then a centre from Dungate went right across the goal mouth with no one up to convert it. Iverson added a second and then Gay did well to clear in a scrimmage. Weak goalkeeping gave Wilson a chance to add a third. Morgan then saved from McGreish.

The second half found High School on the attack most of the game and the inexperience of Booth players gave them openings that enabled goals to be added by Dungate, Christison, Iverson and two by Santurbane. Parsons had a good chance to score for Booth but was slow. With the strengthening up of a couple of positions in the Booth team future games should be more evenly contested.

Booth were best served by Ferguson, Eby, Gomez, DeMarco, MacDonald, and Ritchie. For High, Fisher, Cramp, Faw, Santurbane, Wilson and Iverson were the pick. Referee, W. W. C. O'Neill; linesmen, G. Blake, T. Church.

Catholic Women's League Has Tea

The home of Mrs. P. I. Palmer, Fourth Avenue East, was the scene on Saturday afternoon of a delightful tea and sale of home cooking by the Catholic Women's League. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion and presented a very attractive appearance. Many ladies called during the afternoon to lend their patronage to the affair, which was very successful.

Mrs. Palmer was assisted in receiving by Mrs. M. A. Burbank, president of the Catholic Women's League. Mrs. M. P. McCaffery and Mrs. B. Curtin poured, and waitresses were Misses Margaret and Gwen Palmer, Jean Robertson, Pulmira and Mary Astori and Mrs. H. L. Shadwell. In charge of the home cooking table were Mrs. J. L. Blain and Mrs. Whiffin. Mrs. Murray had charge of the kitchen. Mrs. C. P. Belagno conducted the raffle for a pair of pillow cases, of which Mrs. Desrosiers was the winner.

During the afternoon there was a delightful musical program which included piano solos by Miss Margaret McCaffery, piano duets by Misses Ruth Gillies and Helen McCaffery, and vocal solos by Mrs. J. H. Carson and Mrs. J. H. McLeod. Miss Blanche Curtin acted as accompanist.

POLICY OF LIBERALS

Far-Reaching Farm Aid Moves Promised in Official Saskatchewan Platform

REGINA, Sept. 18.—Substantial assistance for debt-ridden and weather-harrassed farmers is a prominent plank in the platform on which Saskatchewan's de-throned Liberals plan to seek a return to power. Resolutions passed at the summer convention and just issued in official form, include resolutions on land-tenure and weather-crop insurance which are far-reaching in scope.

If and when the Liberals who ruled Saskatchewan until their overthrow at the polls in 1929, are sent back into control of the province's government, they promise to "make a complete survey of the relations prevailing between the creditor and debtor with a view to readjusting indebtedness both with regard to principal and interest in such a manner as to assure the debtor farmers the opportunity to meet their indebtedness."

In view of the serious crop situation in Saskatchewan and the low price for grain, particular interest centres on the stand taken by the Liberal party which commands the largest group in the legislature. Attitude of the various political groups in the province are the focus of pronounced attention, although Premier J. T. M. Anderson, Conservative head of the Co-operative government, has stated that no election will be held until 1933 at least.

Three steps must be taken while the proposed creditor-debtor survey is pending, according to the approved Liberal resolution. These are:

The Proposals

(1) To keep municipal and provincial taxes down to the minimum essential to provide those services which lessen the cost of producing and marketing the products of the farm;

(2) To secure for the farmers of Saskatchewan interest rates as low as those which can be obtained in eastern Canada; and

(3) To set up and perpetuate an organization which understands agricultural needs and possibilities and has the confidence of the creditors as well as the debtors and which shall be given the power to arrange final equitable adjustments under which their financial difficulties can be met without dispossessing the present owner.

Powers accorded the debt commissioner under the Debt Adjustment Act in Saskatchewan are not wide enough, according to opinions expressed at the convention of Liberals. The approved resolution would extend his influence as far as to give the commissioner or commissioners "power to arrange final equitable adjustments as between debtor and creditor."

Actuaries and statisticians of a number of insurance companies are understood to be giving serious consideration to another resolution regarding crop insurance, passed by the convention. The Liberal party, which confirmed James G. Gardiner as leader at its summer meet, is believed to be prepared to make a crop-insurance plan a government affair, if returned to power.

The official resolution on the matter stated: "The Liberal party pledges itself, as soon as it is returned to power, to appoint a special committee to fully investigate the feasibility of a system of crop or weather insurance applicable to the needs of the farming industry of the province, which will look toward reimbursing our farmers for the cost of producing their yearly output."
