HEAVY HITTING CONTEST GOES TO NATIVE SONS

Canucks Defeat Elks 13-11 in Five Inning Contest Called Because Of Darkness

Comadina Leads Hitters

First Triple Play Seen in Years on Local Diamond Manipulated By Sons of Canada

Native Sons took last night's city league baseball fixture from Elks in a five-inning slugfest by a score of 13 to 11. Comadina, who started the game for the Sons, was yanked in the fourth after he had allowed three hits and two walks and Lambie finished the game for the winners. Chenoski who did the heaving for the Elks, was touched for a dozen hits in the five innings.

Before the game, the members of both teams lined up near the stands, and President Rudderham asked the fans to rise and stand for a minute's silence in memory of Harvey Fraser, late manager of the Old Empress team, who died last week while on the grounds.

The Native Sons, as has been their habit in recent games, started right off in the first inning and collected six runs on five hits and a hit batsman. Johnny Comadina, who started pitching for his team, contributed a homer into centre during this stanza.

Elks managed to drive two men over the plate in their half of the inning on a walk, a single and a double.

Sons got three more in the second and four more in the third. Elks added three runs in the second while they collected six in the fourth and drove Comadina from the box. Lambie went in as relief hurler and managed to hold the Lodgemen for the last two innings.

It was a ragged game most of the way but was featured by a triple play, the first that has been seen here for some time. Harold and Farquhar were on base in the third with none out. Three runs had already scored and it looked bad for the Sons with Fred Stephens at bat. A double steal was started and at the same time Stephens smashed a line drive to centre. Lambie made a nice catch on the ball and threw to Johnson at second to cut off Harold, and Johnson completed the play by throwing Farquhar out at first.

Comadina led the batters with a home run, a triple and a single in three times up. Bury made two singles in three attempts. Harold, Stephens, Skinner and Chenoski each hit safely twice during the game, Harold and Skinner each making a two-bagger.

SPORT NOTES

One of the latest developments in soft ball is the junior series of games in which the newbies of the city are taking a leading part. Possibly the series might be extended and organized in such a way as to provide a league series with a number of teams represented.

Six-day bicycle riding is one of the toughest sports in the world today. The riders must be in perfect physical condition, have wonderful powers of endurance, and plenty of gameness. Consider the 'Ironman' who has fallen so often and has survived so many jammed bad soles that he is called the 'Ironman.' When nearly halfway through a recent muscle marathon on wheels staged at Madison Square Garden in New York City, McNamara and five others collapsed on the boards after a barrage of flying bikes. Two of the riders, McNamara and Alphonse Goosens, went to the basement hospital in the garden. Mac had two or three ribs unbuckled from their moorings. Goosens had a slit in his side from a pedal incision and many stitches were required to close the wound. The boys were out of the going for about an hour, but back they came, wincing with their hurts. McNamara was taped up like a mummy. But they continued.

It is doubtful if many people fully realize just what a difficult feat Sergeant J. H. Regan of the Canadian Scottish performed at Bisley on Wednesday, when he chalked up a total of 104 out of a possible 105 to lead the qualifier in the first stage of the King's Prize. In 1928 the six-inch bull's-eye at 200 yards was reduced to five inches, the target which they are now using at the great Empire meet of the National Rifle Association, while the eighteen-inch bull at 500 and 600 yards was reduced to fifteen inches.

The dimensions of the bull for these distances is the smallest ever used in the King's Prize and Regan's score was the highest ever made with this particular target. Regan's score of 104 was the highest made in the first stage of the King's in the last four years. However, the score of 104 made at the time was with the larger bull, which makes Regan's feat all the more notable.

It appears as if Rogers Hornsby once the king of second basemen will close his career as a third sacker. Hornsby has shifted Bill Jurgens, former Reading shortstop, to second and is taking care of the corner, where he hasn't so much ground to cover and so much running to do. It is the Rajah's admission that he isn't as spry as he used to be. Then the Cubs' pitcher is having plenty of trouble with his ankles, but his batting is needed and therefore it is apparent he is anxious to play every day if possible.

A young revolution is raging in eastern lacrosse. First, the drastic drop of 12 men to seven, reducing the size of the field and revival of the professional game, and now comes a suggested change in the oldest of plays' the draw-off. To eliminate delay in posing sticks, placing the ball, and the draw, it is planned to bounce the ball between two players and let play be on. There is no doubt that the draw-off wastes a lot of time and the toss-in may speed up the action, but it is hoped that the changes are not so numerous that old-timers will be unable to recognize the national pastime.

WATERING OF LONDON

Largest Public Water Enterprise in World in Hands of Voluntary Body of Men

LONDON, July 21.—The largest public water enterprise in the world that of the Metropolitan City of London, and it is in the hands of a voluntary body known as the Metropolitan water board, which recently held its annual meeting.

The board's supply of water provides for a population which is no less than one-fifth of the population in Great Britain that derives its daily supplies from the domestic water tap. The Thames alone last year provided a daily average of 166,000,000 gallons. This amount of water would suffice for the needs of the inhabitants of Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Sheffield, Nottingham, Leeds, Brighton and Southampton taken together. The supply of water from the wells owned by the Metropolitan water board is nearly as much as the supply to both Manchester and Southampton.

The board first came into existence in 1903, but some of the sources of supply over 300 years old. Thus the Hampstead and Highgate Ponds were first used for water supply purposes by Sir John Hart, the Lord Mayor of London in 1589. The Queen Mary Reservoir, at Littleton, opened by the King in 1925, is the largest of modern artificial reservoirs.

Increasing Demand

But still the demand increases, owing to the rapid and continuous development of building estates in all parts of London's outer suburbs. The installation of bathrooms adds considerably to the daily consumption. For the year ending last March, approximately 133 miles of main were laid. Nearly 8,000,000 persons are supplied daily with water, of whom 63% reside north of the Thames.

There are, however, many difficult problems ahead, notably in connection with the replacing of mains, so many of which have burst during the past few months. On the one side the Metropolitan water board would like to have ways under all main roads so as to accommodate the pipes, but the representatives of the electricity and gas companies object to the laying of gas mains and high voltage cables in subways. There has been considerable discussion as to the relative merits of cast iron and steel mains and their deterioration. The purity of London's water is widely recognized, but it is not generally known that the chlorination of the river Thames is carried on between floods, whereas the chlorination of the New River water is practised during floods.

BIG SIX STANDING

Fred Stephens increased his average in last night's game between the Sons of Canada and more into undisputed leadership in the Big Six standing. Bill Harold, who hit in three times at bat, climbed into second place, displacing George Howe, who drops out on account of not having played enough games. Johnny Comadina moved into third place, just behind Harold with three hits out of three tries. Robert fills the sixth position in the standing now with 290, although he did not play last night on account of a sore finger. Following is the standing:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	P.	E.
Stephens E.	8	28	6	11	38	1
Harold E.	6	24	9	9	27	1
