a great pair of pitchers in Earnshaw ? and Grove and a mighty fine pair of batters in Simmons and Foxx. If BOUT IS they have any handicap it is that they have just won two pennants and two world series in a row. That may make it hard to keep the team teed up and hustling."

The Yankees themselves, McCarthy declared, were a real good ball elub. "If the Yankees get good pitching, you are going to see them up there at the finish," Joe asserted. Washington Senators also had a good chance. McCarthy continued in his discussion of the season's prospects. "If the Athletics should meet with a little hard luck. the Senators should figure in the finish. They at least have a good pitching staff.'

National League

McCarthy predicted another close race in the National League. The breaks would probably determine which of four or five teams around the top would win. "I like the Cubs and Cardinals, though," continued Joe. Only numerous injuries to players had prevented the Cubs from getting out on top last year, said McCarthy of the team of which he was manager in 1930.

The New York Giants and Brook-McCarthy went on.

Asked as to his views about the present style of long hitting and home runs, the Yankee manager admitted that he rather liked the old quick scientific game. Yet home runs were the popular demand at this time.

"The Babe looks great," remarked McCarthy when asked as to Ruth's chances of leading the home run parade this year. "I think he should lead. If he had not been injured, he Philae Winner of Craven Stakes- would probably have been the leader last year."
