MENTAL ATTITUDE

Just now people everywhere are feeling rather inclined to be downhearted over the outlook. Prince Rupert is only race Women's Institute has elected one of a thousand places where the inhabitants are inclined to be pessimistic. It is like influenza, it spreads rapidly, this pessimistic attitude toward everything.

And yet in the past we have found that as we moved forward the pessimism passed away and the difficulties we thought were there disappeared like the rising mists in the morning.

Today there is a mirage of discontent which will vanish as it came, no one knowing exactly whence it came or whither it goes. In a year we shall look back and wonder why we felt as we do today.

A PIONEERING COUNTRY

We have often been asked, what is the outstanding university with no results except sharp of the Hudson Bay Co. characteristic of Canada. In what way does it differ from a loss of dignity on their part. other countries today? The question is difficult to answer. Different people will answer in a different way. The outstanding fact is that Canada is a pioneering country with a polyglot population all striving to use the marvellous resources for the purpose of enriching themselves. The prospect of wealth is the chief stimulus that makes them work and face hardships, but the tussle is what they enjoy. A To educate the literati virile nation is in the making but what effect this virility is having on the rest of the world is not at present evident. Young men from Canada go south and hold high positions, carrying with them some of the virility developed The Doctor with a student bold at home. At present it is probable that virility is the outstanding characteristic of Canada. How this will affect art, science, industry, religion and home life in the future is yet to be determined.

UNIVERSITY RUMPUS

Under the heading "Tremble Students, Tremble!" the Vancouver Sun publishes the following leading editorial in a recent number:

"Having failed to intimidate the Senate of the University of British Columbia, the Tolmie Government launches a covert cabinet attack upon the students of that institu- men to get away to the fishing N.R. station and wharves just to

"For it seems that some of those students have had the its attraction. temerity to hold an opinion. And that opinion, expressed in the Ubyssey, consists of a protest against the manner in who was showing a young lady charge, what was once a rough which the government is treating the University.

"Even the most reactionary members of the Victoria deck." Cabinet will admit that the very first purpose of the University is to teach students how to form opinions.

"And yet when they form one and express it in their own publication, the awful majesty of the Cabinet is to be arrayed against them.

"Students are not playing politics. It is highly unlikely at the next election. They have that any one of them cares very much whether a Liberal or Conservative government is administering the University. In fact, they deprecate the idea of political manipula- tax rate. tions in any regard to the institution.

"But when the students, in a respectful and intelligent way, ask for a revision of University policy, they are, entitled to say plainly what they think, without any browbeating from Victoria.

"To deny the students the right of self-expression is to return to the Dark Ages; it is like an old-fashioned father chastising his grown son for daring to speak his mind. "This student opinion is the opinion of the students' families; it is the opinion of most of the people of British Columbia. And the frowns and glares of Victoria cannot energy grim, and there's no doubt Dated the 12th suppress it.
