Another interesting statement made by the Bishop was that each native and Eskimo tribe thinks itself "the best people." The whites they look on as an afterthought of the Creator, and inferior. The Eskimos have been less influenced by the degradation of the white man than any others and they are being developed very rapidly. Civilization is not spoiling them. They have their own ten-ton schooners on which they take their families and dogs and, if not spoiled by white people, will work out their own destinies, the Bishop declared. Bishop Stringer told of the changed attitude in the last thirty or forty years of the Ottawa government toward the northland.
