

CARNERA AND MALONEY HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT TONIGHT

Premonition of Something Sudden Happening Pervades Air; Italian Claims Bad Rib

MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—Frost is predicted for Miami tonight but it is hoped by the promoters and all concerned with the fight this evening between Primo Carnera and Jim Maloney that the frost will be confined merely to the weather and will not affect this much heralded battle. Even at that there are certain misgivings and a little birdie has told some of the experts of the cauliflower industry who have assembled here that something sudden may happen.

Jim Maloney

To fight Primo Carnera at Miami Beach tonight.

On the eve of battle, Carnera's manager claimed last night that that big Italian's "busted" rib was no better and that he was in no condition to do justice to himself in the ring. Either Primo is really hurt or else he is seeking to establish some kind of an alibi. It looks none too good at that.

On the other hand, Maloney is stated by his groomers to be in the pink of condition and ready to go.

In view of this rib play on the part of Carnera, the fight might have been postponed under ordinary circumstances but it was just impossible to defer this one. An-

BASKETBALL IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, March 5.—The University of California basketball team will arrive here tonight for the three game series at the University of Washington Pavilion with the University of Washington to decide the Pacific Coast conference championship. The first game will be played Friday night, the second on Saturday and the third, if needed, on Monday evening.

Although California has won the title in two years successively, Washington is given a fair chance to emerge victorious. After having been afflicted with influenza, several star Washington players have shown marked and timely recovery during the past few days.

The series will be marked by the large stature of players on both teams. Few of either the Washington or California players are less than six feet in height or weigh less than 180 pounds.

AL SMITH LOOMS UP

May Again Be Candidate For Democratic Presidential Nomination—To Attend Convention

NEW YORK, March 5.—Indicating that it was his intention to force prohibition again as an issue, Ex-Governor Al Smith, Democratic presidential candidate, announced yesterday that it was his intention to attend the 1932 Democratic convention. Although it had been previously supposed that he would not take a very active part in the 1932 campaign, there is now reason to believe that he may yet be very much in the limelight again.

Asked yesterday if he intended to be a candidate against Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination, Smith declared that now was neither the time nor the place to consider such a matter. All this would be decided in due course at the national convention.

Manufacturers Pay Visit Here

"Junior Members" of Association Arrived This Afternoon and Will go South Tomorrow Night

Eight "junior" members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association from Eastern Canada, making an excursion to the Pacific Coast, arrived in the city from the east by train this afternoon and will spend a day here, sailing tomorrow night on the Camosun for Vancouver. The party was met on arrival this afternoon by members of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

CUT DOWN ON DRUGS

Cocaine and Heroin No Longer Medical Necessity While Some Would Also Ban Codein

GENEVA, March 5.—Just as an agreement seemed in sight between the nations for a general reduction in the manufacture of narcotic drugs, Germany has demanded that she should not be restricted in the manufacture of codein which is very profitable to that country. Efforts will be made to have Germany change its views on the matter as it is not believed that that country would insist on demanding profit from such a source.

While there is no desire to restrict the manufacture of opium or morphine for legitimate medical use, experts assert that cocaine and heroin are no longer a medical necessity while many doctors claim that codein is not a necessity either.

Sam Jabour sailed yesterday afternoon on the Prince George for a trip to Anyox on insurance business.

P. ROBERT ON CRUISE

To Carry Passengers on Cruise From Halifax to Vancouver

MONTREAL, March 5.—On March 15, four days after the return of the Canadian National liner P. Robert will leave the New Brunswick port for another long cruise, announced here today by Alan, assistant general manager, Canadian National Steamships.

Mr. Allen said that the cruise has been under consideration for some time but that plans not been complete until the cruise in question will be from Halifax to Boston, on to Cuba, then the Panama Canal, on to Mexico, thence to San Francisco, Victoria and thence to Vancouver. The cruise will be the last of special loop excursions and water in conjunction with the Canadian National Steamships affording a journey totalling 10,000 miles through varied scenery and touching at four ports apart from Canada which will be seen from coast to coast by the cruise.

Upon arrival at Vancouver, Prince Robert will take her place in the Canadian National line from there to Victoria and Seattle.

The Prince Robert's latest launching will be about 22,000 tons. Arriving in Canada in December from her builders, British, the Prince Robert is the third of three West Indies cruise ships. That accounted for 12,000 tons. Her South American voyage will account for about 14,000 tons. Halifax-Vancouver cruise for 6,000 miles.
