Christmas Spirit.

Tomorrow is Christmas Day, the day on which the Christ Child was born, bringing a message of peace and good will to men. After two thousand years this message is being heard with greater force than ever before and modern transportation and communication developments have made it possible to carry it to the very ends of the earth.

Tomorrow the whole of Christendom will be celebrating the greatest event the world has known and will do so with the satisfaction that efforts are being made everywhere to carry out the intent of the divine message.

Peace on earth is being seriously considered by statesmen as a practical policy and good will to men is being developed in the individual although there is yet a good deal of spade work to be done before it becomes general in the world.

In the development of the Christ spirit the first thing to consider is good will to our neighbors. If we have no good will for them we cannot expect to have it toward those who are farther afield and whom we possibly have never seen. No man is a Christian who cannot live on good terms with those around him.

Then there is the spirit of good will toward the people of other nations, which is required. While not as important as good will to our near neighbors, it is essential in the carrying out of the divine injunction. We must cultivate a spirit of good will to all regardless of language, color or race, if we are to carry out the intent of the Christmas message. Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men.

PERPETUAL CHRISTMAS

New Era of Spiritual Joy, Purity and Peace Was Brought

(From The Christian Science Monitor.)

With the message of Christmas-tide, "On earth peace, goodwill toward men," which was heard by only a few seagulls watching in the night, there dawned in human consciousness a new era of spiritual joy, purity and peace. The way may have been dark on that first Christmas night, yet the eyes of the watchers were directed eastward, where they knew the light would first break through, thence to outshine all darkness. Christmas, then, heralds in not only the birth of Jesus but the increasing recognition of universal righteousness, goodwill and unity among all nations.

Far from being merely a bygone religious event, Christmas is indicative of the birth of Truth in human consciousness and of the almighty of God, divine Principle, operating in our midst today. "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." Today mankind is witnessing the fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy.

This divine Principle, whereby Christ Jesus fed the multitudes, healed the sick, freed sinners, still-ed the storm, and restored the dead to their loved ones is available to all today. Thereby mankind is being freed of the scourge of fear and all its attendant ills; for fear is unspiritual; it forms no part of the worship of God "in spirit and in truth." Through spiritualization of thought and consequent dependence for health and daily supply on Spirit rather than on matter, the torments of fear, expressed as sickness, poverty, loneliness, unemployment, gradually fade out of human thought and experience.

Inspiring Joy

Spiritual joy inspired the angelic chorus that first Christmas night of long ago and the same spiritual joy in liberating and brightening the lives of men and women today and is spreading to all mankind in token of the universality of divine Love. The curtain has been lifted on the radiance of spiritual being.

A true Christian, unafraid and pure of heart, lays at the feet of Christ, Truth, his "gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." He surrenders before his new understanding of God and man his grievances, fears, and forebodings. In other words, he accords true mental worship to the almighty of divine Principle, Love. Even before seeing the full solution of his human problems he offers up the sweet-smelling savor of faith, confidence, gratitude. This thankfulness undermines his old fears, for one cannot be both spiritually grateful and materially afraid at one and the same time.

In spite of many a tangle still to be unravelled, mankind has never been so near to the establishment of peace between all nations as it is today, when men are discerning that there is but one governing divine Mind. And each one who truly worships God, good striving to express the maximum of righteousness and joy and so blot out of his thought even the least belief in evil, is doing his share toward bringing in the millennium, when all mankind shall join in the angelic chorus, "On earth peace, goodwill toward men."

Public Ownership Is Preferable to Private Ownership

Government ownership of public utilities is to be preferred to private ownership, according to the verdict of an interesting debate which took place among Moose Lodge members last night.

W. B. McCallum and Ald. G. W. Radóshman were heard in arguments for public ownership while D. C. Schuber and N. S. K. Brewer presented the case on behalf of private ownership.

The public ownership team won both on judges' decision and show of hands.

Percy Cameron presided and the judges were B. J. Bacon, J. M. Morrison and James Calvin.
