We are told by the government papers that free fuel oil for fishing boats, which has been recently granted, is going to be a great boon to the fishing industry here and for this beneficence we are to take our hats off to our "popular" member at Ottawa, Mr. H. S. Clements.

If free fuel oil is good for fishing boats why isn't it good for other industries?

Why wouldn't it be a good thing for other articles in connection with other industries to be free?

Why wouldn't free food be a good thing for the people who eat?

The protectionists tell you that you must have protection to encourage home industry, but the moment the tariff is reduced or taken off altogether they tell you that the change is made to encourage home industry.

You can never get logic from a protectionist. He is a special privilege man, his argument is humbug and is designed solely and wholly for personal gain or to suit political exigency.

Next summer the city will be called upon to meet close upon a million and a half dollars in treasury notes. What is the city council doing to meet the situation?

What is going on under cover of which the people are not being advised?

The people want to see a sale made of the long term issues. They want it, too, before we can be held up on a renewal of the treasury notes, and they want to know what is being done in the meantime. They will not stand for any deal being closed before they are given any information as to the price realized. If they do somebody will pay the penalty.

TERRACE NEWS ITEMS

(By Special Correspondent)

A most successful bazaar and dance was held in the Progress club hall here under the auspices of the Women's Civic club on Saturday last. Two of the stalls were filled with numerous articles which had been made by the ladies during the winter, while a third was given over to the Women's Auxiliary of St. Matthew's church. The cake and candy stall demanded constant attention, and long before evening all three of the stalls were practically empty. The dance which followed was well attended.

ed, the music being provided partly by the local band and partly by a string band consisting of two violins and a guitar. Mrs. Little, Mrs. Large and Mrs. Lazelle were responsible for the Civic club stalls, while Mrs. Petter presided over that of the W. A. During the evening Mrs. Sparks and Mrs. Little were responsible for the stall on the platform containing the few unsold articles. The whole affair was pronounced an unqualified success by every one who attended.

"CLOTHES" PORTRAYS SHAMS OF SOCIETY

Grace George's Success Will Appear at Empress in Pictures

"Clothes," the latest production of the Famous Players' studios, will be the attraction at the Empress for two days, beginning Wednesday, May 13, and will be shown at the usual scale of prices at this house.

Few dramas ever produced on the American stage have attained the conspicuous and sensational success of "Clothes," formerly one of Grace George's greatest dramatic triumphs. Written by Avery Hopwood and Channing Pollock, two of the foremost dramatists of the day, it portrays in a realistic manner the sham of society, and the sincerity of the simple life which pride of clothes does not dominate.

The part made famous in the original stage presentation by Grace George is portrayed in the film by Charlotta Ives, one of the most clever ingenue leads of the American stage. She forces the audience to follow every development of her pitiful love for clothes with poignant sympathy. She is ably supported by House Peters, as West, a rascal; Edward Mackay, as Richard Burbank, sincere and upright; Frederick Webber as Horace Watling; Josephine Drake as Anna Watling, the woman with social ambitions so strong that they overcome her very love for her child; Minna Gale Haynes as Mrs. atheart, the cold, cynical woman of the world, and Mimi Yvonne, the noted stage child, who plays Ruth, the Watlings' child, with precocious cleverness.

The story gives to each character and incident a just and equitable proportion of importance. Each character is acted with a keen realization of the meaning of the role, and each character fits into the play logically and impels the performance in a convincing manner.

The society circus scenes, amid the gaiety and frivolity of which suddenly descends the stroke of tragedy which brings Olive to a realization of her worthless and empty ambitions, are mounted with unusual scenic beauty. "Clothes" may well be termed a production with a soul.

ROMANCE OF SALMON SPAWNING TIME HERE

Salmon Run to the Source of Rivers to Spawn and Die

Nobody ever saw a Pacific coast salmon more than seven years old, although some spring salmon have been caught that weighed almost one hundred pounds.

This is the tragedy of the Pacific in one sentence. The salmon run, which has begun now in the rivers of British Columbia, is a funeral procession. This applies to five out of six members of the Pacific coast salmon family. The sixth member is a small species related to the trout. The other five species visit the spawning grounds only once, and then die. The salmon always spawns in fresh water, as far up from the sea as it can get, near the sources of the rivers. The young fish agree with the current, and this accord takes them back to the salt sea.

The salmon inhabits the sea until it is a grown-up fish and feels the strong influence of the mating instinct in its mind. This, like the sex impulse of the bee, is a message of death.

Then the salmon mate, and begin their nuptial voyage up the rivers to the spawning beds. It is no exaggeration to say that the beautiful fish, in whose bodies life runs rich and strong, meet their death after a desperate honeymoon of struggle and suffering, which lasts only a few weeks. They do not take food after they leave the salt water. They are like the lovers in the Greek poem, whose passion was so great they forgot to take nourishment and died of starvation, a romantic death.
