NO WORD OF PLANE

Reports Being Awaited of Capt. W. R. May and Officers Trying to Capture Mad Trapper

EDMONTON, Feb. 9.—Up to last night no word had been received of Capt. W. R. (Wop) May since his hop-off from Aklavik on Sunday for the Rat River with Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers and tear gas bombs. They are endeavoring to capture Albert Johnson, demented trapper, who has shot two mounted policemen, one fatally, and terrorized the country.

POLICE ADMINISTRATION

Editor, Daily News:—

At the present moment our voters are called upon to give most serious consideration to the question of our police administration, and next week to express their opinion by ballot.

To my mind there is at present very little, if any, justification for submitting this issue to the people. The time of the annual municipal election would have been the most appropriate.

At the present time people are generally making an endeavor to centralize police administration and struggling in many places to remove same from local politics. Why should it then be advisable for our city to put its police affairs back to politics? The ordinary law-abiding citizen fells satisfied that since 1926, when arrangements were made with the provincial police, we have had the most efficient police administration in the history of our city. Do we want to revert to conditions as they existed prior to 1926?

It may be safely said, that we are over-governed. Up to 1926 we had three police forces in our city. It was to remedy this and to avoid duplications in police matters as well as to remove the police from "string-pulling" local influences that our voters in 1926 and once later decided to have the provincial police assume the function of city police.

It has been suggested that this proposed change is in the interest of economy. It is estimated that it will cost our city about $3,000 to again set up their own police department. Under present economic conditions are we justified in spending this money? The provincial police are now operating under a definite agreement with the city as to number of men on the force. If the present number of men is considered too large, the matter can easily be adjusted between the council and the province and the cost reduced accordingly.

According to city records the cost of operating the police department from 1911 to 1925, inclusive, was an average of $15,823.00 per year. The cost from 1927 to 1931, inclusive, under provincial police, was an average of $14,258.00, or an annual saving of $1,565.00.

Where does the economy then come in with a proposed change? The function of the police is to see that the laws of our country are observed, and our ordinary average citizen has no quarrel with the police in their endeavors to enforce the law, or to see that it is not openly violated.

It woul dalmost seem, that the only reason for a change would be to give some people a chance to interfere in police administration, or to direct just how and when the law should be applied. We do not want that. We want the law enforced without partiality or favors, and this can only be done under our present system.

In the best interests of our city it is to be hoped that the voters will go to the poll on the 18th and vote for the continuing of the provincial police, both in the interest of economy and fair enforcement of the law without political or local interference. This done, the city council will no doubt at an early date come to some satisfactcry arrangement with the provincial government for a reduced force at a correspondingly reduced cost.

GIRLS LEAP YEAR PARTY

Forty Boys Guests of Like Number of Girls at Happy Affair Last Night in Commodore Cafe

Forty popular girls of the younger set entertained forty boys at a delightful Leap Year and Valentine dinner and dance last night in the Commodore Cafe. The girls took full charge of affairs from bringing the boys to the party in their cars to taking them home again after the festivities. The girls picked their partners, clapped the orchestra and everything that the boys would ordinarily do. It was a most delightful change.

Miss Caroline Mitchell and Miss Laura Frizzell were the official hostesses and welcomed the boys. Miss Mitchell acted as toastmaster at the dinner and a toast to the boys was proposed appropriately by Miss Maude McGuire with Kenneth McCanell responding.

After the dinner, dancing was indulged in from 9 p.m. until 2:30 a.m. Splendid music was provided by Charlie Balagno and his Venetian Orchestra. The banquet room was specially decorated for the occasion with streamers and Valentine effects.
