ANOTHER RUSSIAN PICTURE

One of the most interesting pictures of a little part of Russia yet published is that of a young lady named Rhea Clyman, a Toronto girl, who went to that country three years ago and has been writing about what she sees. In an tion, "Is Russia Going Capitalist?" and her story is that the country has long parted from the pure communism of the early days of the revolution.

Stalin's National Industrial policy she interprets as a confession of failure. She says that the old Marxian slogan, "He who does not work shall not eat," is replaced by the latter nodded slightly. the Stalin slogan, "He who cannot produce more than he yourself and see that your neighbor does not get more." Here is an enlightening paragraph:

"No one is happy or completely satisfied. Some regard = the system of piecework bonuses and being paid according to qualifications as a return to the capitalist system. Others think it a recognition of their merits and gives them a better chance to get some of the things that they differences of opinion as to the ex- ience was the statement that haliproduce."

The article goes on to say that the day of trades union whether they are simple substances greater percentage of vitamin than control is gone. The committee of workers no longer has containing a type of vitamin or did the so-much advertised cod any power. No longer are meetings allowed in working hours. When the management and control of industry was taken from the workers and placed in the hands of one man it was a blow to the pride of the men. The introduction of capitalist methods means that a man has the same OUR PRICES fear of losing his job hanging over his head as he did in the old days with the added knowledge that if he loses this job he can't get another. Here is another interesting para- ARE STILL THE LOWEST

"Production has not increased at the rate the Kremlin Friday & Saturday expected and the opponents of the National Industrial Policy may still be sitting with their tongues in their cheeks. But the improvement in working discipline in the past few months is remarkable. In Soviet factories I have "BUFFALO" FLOURseen young men and women work intently for hours at a stretch without getting up to light a cigarette. I have seen them work overtime without the time and a half or free supper that Ontario law requires, just in order to finish the job on hand—an unheard-of procedure a few years back. I have seen workers rush along madly to get inside the factory gates before the last whistle blew, just as may be seen in any factory town in Canada. I have seen them hurrying at their work, impatient when their machine CHOICE TOMATOESbrok down. The N.I.P. is responsible for that."

"The past and the present are being sacrificed for the Lucis-Fresh Seconds future," according to this writer. 'If communist ideals and per doz. Marxian principles are not enough incentive for Russian DESSICATED COCONUTworkers, then let us try capitalist methods,' said the com-SHELLED WALNUTSmunist leaders. We must produce a surplus and our industries must run at a profit. We must stop coddling the workers and make them buckle down.'

"Soviet labor laws are now stricter than those of Canada or the United States. Nearly all the factory workers and a great many of the office employees are on piecework. All punch clocks and are fined if they are late. As unemployment has been abolished by the government, the trade unions do not pay any unemployment relief. You may not stay away from work unless you are ill, and even then you must produce a doctor's certificate to show that your temperature was over 99.5. In the case of those habitually suffering from malaria or fever a high temperature is not taken into acocunt. If you infringe on the labor discipline or are found slacking at work you are fired and as there is only one employer, the state, you cannot offer your services to anyone else.

"Engineers, technicians and shop foremen, under a decree just passed, are paid according to their qualifications. If they do not produce their quota of the Pian or their norm, they are not only fined and demoted but also arrested and sometimes shot. Factory managers are not allowed credits by the banks unless they show a net profit or surplus over expenses, and no branch of industry is allowed to operate at a loss. Factory committees, except for social activities, have been abolished and the control and management are now in the hands of a one-man director, usually a communist but not necessarily so. He cannot pass the buck now. If things go badly he answers with his

The following incident indicates the growth of class privilege in this intensely interesting country:

"A young worker who stood beside me in the queue waiting for a bus for an hour did not voice Molotov's pacific article in MacLean's Magazine she tries to answer the ques- class statements. As he stood stamping his feet, waving his arms and blowing his nose, he suddenly stopped stock still as if paralyzed when a blue-uphostered limousine with a young, clean-shaven man lolling inside halted to wait for the traffic signal. The eyes of the man in the limousine met the eyes of the man waiting for the bus and

"There goes a clever man," the worker remarked when eats shall not work." The guiding principle there, in spite the car passed on. "We worked at the same bench a few of the revolution, still is: "Get as much as you can for years ago. He joined the party and is a director now. He has a chaffeur and a car, while I, poor fool, stand shivering an hour for a bus."

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Denstedt for his extremely interesting address.
