DRAMA IS

James Dunn, Sally Eilers and May Marsh Have leading Roles in "Over the Hill" at Capitol Theatre

"Over The Hill" now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is the first picture in which James Dunn and Sally Ellers have been teamed in since their memorable "Bad Girl" and the first screen appearance of Mae Marsh in twelve years. Miss Marsh, whose name reminds one of such pictures as "The Birth Of a Nation' and Intolerance," retired from the screen at the very height of her professional career at the completion of the silent photoplay, "The White Rose."

The story of "Over The Hill' deals with a cross-section of a family, relating a double tale of romance and love. It depicts the drama, the comedy and the pathos of a mother and her growing The candidates for three seats on brood, and shows vividly the de-
