Large Number of Fishermen Appealing to Government

QUEBEC, May 10:-The stern, perintendent of fisheries. The men who fish in summer and "lumber" numbers turning to the government the way, is hereditary. for aid, the statement said.

The value of the Quebec fisheries 1928, Mr. Gibault pointed out, while the same industry in the provinces Brunswick has shown a "tremenfisheries in 1930 was $2,503,998 as ent member of the cast. compared with $2,933,339 in 1929. industry could or should have increased proportionately to that of British Columbia and New Brunswick," the statement declared.

Pointing to the "increasing and important value" of salmon and halibut fisheries in the western province, Mr. Gibaut writes, "we have neither salmon nor halibutin Quebec and that is all there is to conferred upon Lord Baden-Powell it." Lobsters were one of the most was the naming after him by the important items on the New Bruns- United States Geographical Board wick fish bill and while "we have of a mountain in Washington, and some lobsters in Quebec the catch the Board's statement: "We are is small and steadily falling," the more than pleased to name this superintendent says. The fact that fishermen are more and more turning to farming and the interior on yesteray's train lumbering was largely responsible for the situation. "We must also bear in mind," Mr. Gibaut says, "that of all callings that of fisherman is perhaps the hardest. No one who can earn the same amount of money elsewhere will choose fishling to gain a living. Also we must not lose sight of the fact that the fishing season in the province of Quebec lasts only five months at the outside." However, the statement says, the expenditure of more than nine million dollars on railways and highways in the fishing sections of the province are responsible for "the greatly improved living conditions of fishermen today; when compared to those of 30 years ago.'

Owing to warlike conditions prevailing in Shanghai I have experienced considerable difficulty in getting regular shipments of Chateau Cheese, which is in constant demand by my customers. I therefore appeal to you as an old friend to call personally at the Chateau Cheese Company, Ottaws, and use your best endeavours to have them trace their shipments through, with a view to giving me as prompt delivery as possible, under the circumstances. Yours very truly,

This is just another proof of the world-wide popularity of Chateau -The Aristocrat of the Cheese Family.
