PROPOSED LOCAL INDUSTRY

There seems to be an indication that attempts are being made to keep all provincial industries in the south and prevent any straying away into the wilds of Northern British Columbia. So prevalent is the idea there that a recent official visitor recommended that a monopoly of port privileges be given Vancouver as against any northern ports.

Another move to start an industry in Prince Rupert has been frustrated by the refusal of the provincial government to agree to a licence to operate, the view being taken that there are already enough breweries in the province and to establish another would be superfluous.

There is a good deal of beer consumed in and around Prince Rupert and it all has to be imported. The cost of Frank Hawks hauling the beer and carrying back the empties is very considerable. Prince Rupert, it is claimed, is a suitable olcation for such an industry. There have been men who were willing to put their money into its establishment providing a license be obtained. The Chamber of Commerce is now Noted United States Elyer is Now backing the move to secure a license.

This is just another case of giving Prince Rupert a chance in an open market and it seems as if it should receive the backing of all citizens. It is not a case of beer or no-beer but as there is a demand for beer an opportunity Commander Frank M. Hawks. FAILURE OF NEGOTIATIONS

It is greatly to be regretted that the negotiations between the representatives of the British government and President de Valera of Ireland have failed. Much was hoped from the meeting and there is a possibility that even CHURCH NOTICES liquidators absorb the little that was left. yet good may come from it. There is always an advantage when each side to a controversy has had a full opportunity to state its case and criticize the opposition side.

It is quite possible that the way may have been paved for future parleys at which a final settlement may be made of questions outstanding between the two countries.

"Piecing Out"

(Very Rev. J. B. Gibson, Dean of St. Andrew's Cathedral)

Anna Maria had grown so rapidly since last June that the dress she then donned for the first time was a year later much shorter than that permitted by the regulations. There was no "let down" to it and the only hope of her having an extra summer frock that was wearable was to get a piece of different material that would blend with the original and add it to the bottom.

This her mother did as only mothers couver, or a child have a cold in can with the result that, instead of Montreal but that another may the piecing out detracting from the sneeze in Prince Rupert. appearance of the dress, it added greatly to its charm.

A large part of the service of good people one to another consists of piecing out what is lacking in some other's thought or faith or zeal or knowledge. None of us think all around any subject, none of us turn out absolutely perfect jobs, whether it be in carpentry, paint-

Helping Out

So also in social life there must be much of this helping one another out. There is many a heart that craves just that cheer, by word or kindly deed, which neighbors may give; many a discouraged one waits to be inspired with a new hove by the timely counsel of a friend.
