Week-End Fighting Was Terrific-Slowly Retreating Second Chinese Line Slashed—Invaders Make Gradual Movement Forward

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 22:—The Japanese army forced its way past and around the stoutly defended village of Kiangwan this afternoon. It was the most terrific attack since hostilities began Saturday and slashed terribly a slowly retreating Chinese second line. There was fierce fighting over the week-end as the invading forces gradually made their advance in the face of stiff resistance.

Everything Blew Up But Me, Said

STEWART, Feb. 22—"Everything blew up and blew out of the kitchen but me," was the manner in which Mrs. Cora McEachern, Brightwell Street, described her experience when the frozen waterjacket in her kitchen range exploded.

She was standing warming her hands in front of the range shortly after lighting the fire, when the blast occurred.

Although large fragments of iron were driven through the ceiling and through one partition, Mrs. Mc-Eachern escaped with minor cuts.

All her crockery was smashed and the furniture was badly dam-
