BY GONE

Prince Rupert's best citizens has been Prince Rupert many years ago on which he had had to remain to operate it successfully. Then he came under the spell of the depression and it broke him financially and physically. He left Prince Rupert recently to recuperate in the south but did not recuperate and he will not return.

Mr. Bushby was on one occasion candidate for this riding in the Conservative interests but he was too good a man for party politics. Party heeled annoyed him and he caused considerable ill-feeling by his outspoken criticism. However, he stuck by his principles and never wavered. He was beaten but retained his self-respect.

Citizens of the Bushby type are not numerous. It is a pity there are not more of them.

THEY ARE ALL WORKING

There isn't any unemployment in Rochester, New York. There was, but there isn't now, says a contemporary.

Rochester waged a private war on depression. Trade was almost at a standstill. Men were idle. Machines were idle. The timid were hanging onto their spare money.

Then Rochester got busy and organized. They decided that the way to wipe out the army of the unemployed was to put men to work. They found jobs for the white-collar men and the men in overalls. They found roofs to reshingle, steps to repair, windows to glaze, walls to paint, cellars to clean out, plumbing to mend, and hundreds of odd jobs.

A goal was set up: two million dollars' worth of jobs. In the end not two, but six million dollars' worth of work had been found. Unemployment came to an end.

Every town can be another Rochester. If there's no local war-on-depression campaign in your community, start one now.

YOU'D NEVER KNOW HER...

...FOR THE SAME BABY

This is what Mrs. Albert Bolton, of Toronto, writes: "Our little girl, Margaret Jean, was nursed for the first few months, but this did not satisfy her. I had heard about Eagle Brand and decided to try it. She took to it right away and there has been no trouble since. Her flesh is firm; lovely, straight limbs, good bone development, and she is so contented. Last September she won third prize at the Canadian National Exhibition, against 102 entrants.

If you are unable to nurse your own baby, send for Baby Welfare literature.

NOTHING WILL ADVERTISE PRINCE RUPERT LIKE FLOWER GARDENS IS STATEMENT

ments I have just mentioned. To overcome the adverse soil conditions is, consequently, the first care of the amateur gardener. The soil in its natural state is overcharged with acid and this content must be reduced to more normal proportions before any attempt is made to garden successfully, otherwise only failure will accrue.

Proper Drainage

The drainage must first receive attention in order to render the soil more workable, after which all stumps and roots must be removed as these hold excessive moisture and render the attempt to drain the soil abortive. When suitable drainage has been made the soil must be turned over as often as possible and all lumps broken down in order to allow free access of both light and air as these elements alone will through time correct the excessive acidity I have already referred to, but as the action of the elements is somewhat slow the average gardener desires to see quicker results and seeks means of assisting nature in its curative work. For this purpose science teaches us that fertilizers must be used in order to restore the fertility which was destroyed through the over-development of the acid content.

Fertilizers serve different purposes, but that is another subject which must be passed over lightly in a short talk of this nature. Suffice it to say that lime and wood ashes together with other fertilizers should be used in every case. The old fashioned barnyard brand of fertilizer serves the purpose admirably, if well decayed, but it is not the most pleasant thing to handle. Consequently, for the man with the small garden, science has produced other fertilizers that are easier to handle and much more suitable for the small garden. For the best results the lime should be applied in the fall and the other fertilizers in the spring, six weeks or so before time for planting.

What to Plant

When the soil has been prepared the question arises: What shall I plant, and this must be left to the individual taste of the gardener as the choice is extensive enough to meet the requirements of the most exacting. Plants can be classed roughly in three classes, perennials, biennials and annuals, and here again the choice must be left to the individual, although to my mind no garden is complete without a perennial border, which with a careful selection of its subjects, can be kept in perpetual bloom from early spring to late fall.

Almost all perennials do well in Prince Rupert and form an ideal background to the well laid out garden as even the foliage of most subjects is attractive although the plant may not be in bloom. To mention but a few, delphiniums, monkshood, columbines, gaillardia, geum, chrysanthemums, phlox, pinks and michaelmas daisies come to one's mind. The biennials are also interesting subjects and oftentimes find places in perennial borders with good effect, such subjects as wall-flowers, canterbury bells, foxgloves, etc., being used to advantage in a small garden where it is not possible to grow these subjects in masses, which is the ideal condition.

Roses

"Another thing that should be provided for is a few roses as it is remarkable how well these do here in spite of the fact that we are on the short side insofar as sunshine is concerned. Of course, some roses get along with less sunshine than others and these kinds should be grown in preference to the more delicate subjects that require an abundance of sunshine to see them at their best. But even confining oneself to the hardier kinds still leaves an extensive enough choice to meet the requirements of the average amateur. General McArthur, Mrs. John Laing, Mrs. Lon Pain, Frau Carl Druschki, Souv. de Claudius Pernet, J. B. Clark, General Jacqueminot, Mrs. Edward Heriot, are but a few that do really well here.

I have also found sweet peas and gladiolus do particularly well in Prince Rupert and they should be represented in every garden where space can be found for them as, besides being attractive when growing, make ideal cut flowers, remaining fresh for a considerable time after cutting. In fact sweet peas must be cut regularly in order to keep the vines in bloom because if they are not cut and pods are allowed to form the vines immediately cease to bloom.

Garden Conscious

It is a worth while object to encourage the citizens of Prince Rupert to become garden conscious because I feel our natural setting lends itself admirably to making of some beautiful gardens and it has been demonstrated during the past two or three years that real flowers can be grown here if properly handled.

If I might be permitted to make a suggestion it would be that this organization sponsor a prize at the annual exhibition for some particular exhibit in order to encourage the growing of real exhibition flowers, which I feel sure will attract considerable attention and go a long way towards promoting this very worthy object."

The fire department had a call at 3:45 yesterday afternoon to the Exhibition Building where there was a smoke scare. No damage was done.
