Oriental Situation Is More Intensified From Military Aspect Today

Fighting Breaks Out Between Invaders and Chinese Troops on Border of International Settlement— More Serious Clashes Feared

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28:-The Oriental military situation became more intensified at midnight last night when Japanese naval forces began the occupation of Shanghai. Fighting broke out between Japanese and Chinese troops on the border of the international settlement. Fears are held that there will be more serious clashes as the occupation of one of China's most important seaports continues. The Japanese opened a heavy Former Local bombardment at Woosung, eighteen miles from the mouth of Whangpo River, on Friday shortly after the marines had occupied Shanghai.

Three Fishermen Not Heard From Since Leaving Naden Harbor Week Ago

Growing concern is being felt for the safety of James Marshall, Albert Barton and Chris Carlson, local fishermen, who have not been heard of since they left Naden Harbor on January 22 for Prince Rupert in the small 26foot gill-net boats Two Bits and Shannon Bay. The three men and two boats had been engaged in crab fishing at Naden Harbor for the Kaien Shellfish Co. of Prince Rupert. It is feared that the trio may have been caught on Hecate Straits in the severe storm which lashed this part of the coast at the end of last week.

The authorities have instituted a search but, so far, no trace has been found.
