MR. PATTULLO'S POLICY

In view of the fact that T. D. Pattullo is leader of the Liberal party and undoubtedly will be premier if the Tolmie Government is beaten at the next election, his recent declaration of policy is important to every person in British Columbia. Added to that is the fact that he is the member for Prince Rupert and undoubtedly will again be a candidate for legislative honors at the coming election. Here is what the Victoria Times says of his speech:

"An arresting feature of Mr. Pattullo's speech on the budget was his declaration of general policy as the head of the Liberal party of British Columbia. More than ordinary significance should be attached to his statement because it is the deliverance of one who has had twelve years of experience as a member of a government in this province and the head of one of the most important departments of the provincial public service.

"Mr. Pattullo announced that if he were returned to power in the next election he would immediately take stock of the financial condition of the province to assure a proper balance between income and expenditure, something which does not now exist. He would reorganize the civil service without fear or favor. He would facilitate an investigation of our economic condition by a commission of competent, public-spirited citizens.

"Mr. Pattullo would have an investigation of the relations between the government and municipalities in regard to financial matters, with a view to co-operation instead of conflict between the two representative institutions. Under present conditions the municipalities feel that the government is trying to balance its budget at their expense, that it does not care what happens to them as long as it feathers its own financial nest. Mr. Pattullo's policy would be based upon the incontrovertible fact that the inhabitants of the municipalities pay most of both provincial and municipal taxation, and that therefore the transfer of taxation liabilities from one to the other benefits neither in the long run.

"Land settlement is another important feature of Mr. Pattullo's policy which he has emphasized frequently within the last few years. He realizes that following the present depression there is bound to be an important shift of population, particularly on this continent. There never has been an economic relapse either in Canada or the United States without a big movement of people from districts fraught with disagreeable associations to new regions suitable for home-making. British Columbia has many opportunities for home-seekers, and Mr. Pattullo shows foresight in urging that we should prepare for this inevitable development. Even now, settlers are moving in growing volume into the unsettled regions of Ontario and Quebec, and before long that movement will strike the west in increasing proportions.

"Mr. Pattullo also would have the question of education studied with a view to maintaining its efficiency, and to give to those associated most actively with it a more definite sense of security than they now appear to have.

"At best, however, declarations of policy by leaders of oppositions can not be more than generalizations, since these can only be definitely determined in the light of the conditions which must be met in office. Mr. Pattullo, of course, realizes this. He realizes, too, that he will inherit problems of the most formidable character, but he has both the understanding and courage necessary to the solution of those difficulties in the best interests of the province."

A SATURDAY SERMON

The Spirit of Easter

What can be more fitting than that the message this Easter to the citizens of Prince Rupert and district should be from the pen of the late Archbishop Du Vein? It was he who helped lay the foundation of Christ's Kingdom in this northern country, and on Easter Day, twenty-five years ago, opened the first building dedicated to the worship of God in this city.—J. B. Gibson.

A great annual festival which has been celebrated with unbroken continuity for over eighteen hundred years is something which cannot be ignored. Observed by people living on every continent, not only in crowded cities but also in remote corners, its psychological effect in producing a wave of inspiring thought which sweeps the world is very great.

The spirit of Easter is the spirit of the fullness of life and the brightness of hope, which rises triumphantly over every obstacle. This spirit is exemplified by analogy in the springtime of nature. The buried seed passes through the gloom of death and bursts forth into the brilliant flower.

This spirit of hopeful life received its highest historic revelation in the Person of Christ, whose material body was once crucified on the cross and buried in the tomb, but whose living personality could not be crushed or destroyed by death, but rose triumphantly above every physical limitation, as the influence of His Spirit over the minds of millions today abundantly testifies.

The Practical Meaning

This spirit of hopeful life is now being manifested in various practical ways by many ordinary men and women, who through the spirit of their personality are rising successfully above their cramping circumstances in their achievement of a noble purpose, organizing victory out of apparent defeat.

This spirit of hopeful life will find a fuller expression when we make the thrilling discovery that while our body of flesh and blood cannot pass into the kingdom of the spiritual, our soul when united to God through the Living Christ has the power of clothing itself with a new body more ethereal in its nature and therefore better adapted for the environment of a more spiritual sphere.

Personal identity does not lie in material particles but in spiritual personality which thinks and remembers, loves and chooses. The spirit of the fullness of life and the brightness of hope rises victoriously above the decay of the transient flesh and the limitations of the grossly material. The joy of Easter is the joy of a progressive life ever adapting itself to its new environment in a more spiritual body. St. Paul distinctly tells us that "our body which shall be" will not be the same as "our body which now is," though our identity of personality will continue.

"Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."—F. H. Du Vein, Archbishop of Caledonia.

Manager of Financial Concern Visiting City Sees Great Prospect For West

The Maritime Provinces and Quebec are today financially the best provinces in the Dominion, judging by collections, according to N. Macphee, manager of the Universal Acceptance Corporation of Toronto, the firm that finances the deferred payments for the DeForest Crosley Radio Corporation. He is spending a few days in the city in connection with his business and is visiting with his brother David Macphee, 236 Ninth Avenue East.

Mr. Macphee has visited every city in Canada this year and many of the towns and villages and has made a close study of conditions. He says that the collections in the Maritimes and Quebec are under 3%. In Ontario they are 53% and in the west they are higher, but the condition is not unfavorable.
