ANNUAL FALL FAIR

There seems to have been some difference of opinion in used. the city as to the advisability of continuing the annual fall fair this year in view of financial conditions. It was thought by some that a flower show might have replaced the ordinary fair. However, it has been decided to go ahead and doubtless the community will get behind the held its first practice of the season new board with the object of making the event a success.

Possibly some features of the fair may be eliminated al- ties of the choir. together this year in order to cut down expenses. We suggest that if cuts are made, it should not be in the flowers and vegetables. The flowers were the great feature last year and there should be even greater interest taken this year.

The question of vaudeville entertainment is one that has been discussed considerably. They are in direct competition with the local theatre but are paid for at the public expense. Their total elimination or replacement by lo- cocker was successful in persuadcal talent is worth considering.

Given good weather and united local support there seems no good reason why the fair this year should not dollars for the purpose of building CLARK'S TOMATO SOUP prove successful financially and otherwise, but there will have to be a general trimming of costs.

"How do they do it?"

Among your friends there's sure to be at least one smart young married couple who are the envy and admiration of all who know them.

With an income that is frankly abbreviated, and with no benevolent Aunts in the offing, they still have a home that is correct and comfortable in all its appointments, a home that is admired and copied by their friends.

"Yes, Jane is a remarkable little manager," will probably be the young husband's proud answer. And there is little doubt about it.

THEY DO IT THIS WAY

Take a look around that home and you will find no end of well known advertised products. For Jane is an efficient little manager. She can't afford to take chances that must only be debited to "Experience." When she buys for her home she must get tried and tested and trusted products which carry an honorable name to guarantee her satisfaction.

You will find that Jane is a consistent reader of the advertisements. Are you?
