THE COSY CORNER

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

FOR THE PRETTY HOUSE-WIFE

An Evening Gown Idea Worth Noting

Many a bride who has to economize has bemoaned the accepted fact that she cannot dress for dinner because she has no maid in the kitchen, and must perforce prepare and serve the dinner and "clear away" afterwards.

"I have come to know," says a housewife of experience, "that a dainty evening gown of washable muslin is not only possible, but entirely practical from every point of view. The short sleeves are especially suitable for kitchen work and the low-necked bodice is decidedly comfortable when the 'lady cook' stirs the soup, or bastes the chicken over a hot fire.

The refreshment incident to the donning of an evening gown is not minimized, but increased, by the fact that it must adorn the genius of the kitchen as well as the hostess of the feast.

"And the appetite and enjoyment of the host, as he views a cool and dainty vision, instead of an over-larded maid-of-all-work, is highly increased."

FOR SIR BABY

Extremely Convenient from Mother's Point of View

Among the most useful of the latest novelties is a baby's travelling roll. This is made up in portable size, convenient to carry. Unrolled, it reveals two pockets, one rubber lined, for nappery. The pocket for the fresh linen being uppermost. On the exterior of the latter are smaller pockets, a rubber-lined one for the wash-cloth, and others for brushes, powder box, rattle, etc.

JEWEL FASHIONS

Latest is the Platinum Chain

The slender platinum chain is fast superseding the gold one in its use for pendants. Mountings also are of the same metal, and the number of designs for this most popular ornament continue to be on the increase. The most fashionable lean toward simplicity. In illustration of this there is the single pear-shaped stone, (topaz, this in a mold, then on top a thick layer of pieces of the chicken, free of skin and bone, and on top another layer of tomato. When cold and set, slice in thick slices which will show a piece of chicken in the centre of each. Lay on a bed of garden cress, garnish with mayonnaise.

Custard Potatoes

Boil one quart of sliced potatoes in salted water with a large sprig of parsley. The water should be nearly evaporated when the potatoes are done. Do not cook so long that the slices lose their shape. Add about one pint of milk to cover. When hot, add one beaten egg mixed with a little cold milk. Let boil up once, then add pepper and butter, remove the parsley and serve.

Sweet Cream Cookies

Five cups of flour, one heaping teaspoonful of soda, two heaping teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of salt. Sift all together and stir thoroughly. Into the mixing bowl put two cups of sugar and two cups of thick sweet cream, stir together and add half of the prepared flour. Then add the yolks of three eggs and the white of one, well beaten: flavor with vanilla, and add enough more of the prepared flour to roll softly. Bake in a quick oven.

SENSATIONS IN RACE BETTING

Bookmakers Got Seriously Stung. Largest Amounts Ever Paid out by British Bookies.

The largest of the syndicates which laid odds on the Derby won by Sunstar, lost more than $600,000. The Joel representative was steadily backed all winter, opening at 25 to 1. The day before he galloped home in the 2,000 Guineas, more than ten thousand dollars was sent in on his chances at an average of sixteen to one against.

There was a hurried chop following the victory in the Guineas, and the quotation on the favorite was cut to 2 to 1, but even at that short price the heavy betting continued. When the French representatives were scratched a fortnight ago, and the word leaked out that Adam Bede, and All Gold, the American representatives had been tried out and found wanting, the odds fell again under amethyst or aquamarine), surrounded by openwork gold or platinum. The enamel necklace is likewise conspicuous. The latter are usually very ornate; one design has the entire chain formed of green enamel links of a floral design, with a pearl of different tone in each segment, and a large pendant, similar in color or motif, from which depends an iridescent pearl of unusual beauty.

Chicken Salad

For chicken salad, take stewed and strained tomatoes, season, and add gelatine to stiffen. When it begins to congeal put a layer of the weight of the enormous sum of money.

It is said that the money won on Sunstar was the largest amount ever paid out by British bookmakers on a Derby winner.

work of a lunatic, and not a job put up by disgruntled railway employees.

For some time past there have been numerous stories of wrecks attempted on other roads in a similar manner. The lunatic at one time kept company with Moir, the London soldier who shot a superior officer, and he attempted to wreck a Pere Marquette train by lifting a tie on the grade between St. Thomas and London.

Trainmen are terrorized that this lunatic is still at large. Officers have sought him in vain for months.

MINISTER TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

Rev. H. S. Magee of Toronto Hanged Himself—Was in Ill-health and Worried.

Toronto, June 14.—Word reached the city last night that yesterday morning Rev. H. S. Magee, a well known divine of Toronto, strolled out into the woods from the Gleason health resort on East Hill, Elmhurst, N. Y., and hanged himself, the body being found by an attendant.

Rev. H. S. Magee was associate secretary of the Temperance and Moral Reform Society of the Methodist Church of Canada, and was known from Halifax to Vancouver. He was at the sanitarium suffering from neurasthenia, partly due to hard work and partly to financial worries occasioned by misfortunes of a relative.

FITZSIMMONS SHUNS PUGILISM

Famous Fighter Has Little Use Now for the Manly Game and Won't Let His Son Enter the Ring.

After thirty-four years of prize fighting, in which time he has toppled over opponents weighing as much as sixty pounds more than himself, fighting under great disadvantages, Robert Fitzsimmons, believed by many to be the most remarkable pugilist the game has produced, is content to be known as an actor and forget the slugging game which he helped maintain for a generation.

Old Bob takes small interest in pugilism today. He attended the big fight at Reno, but other battles of lesser note never see him at the ringside. He is done with the game of gloves and won't even allow his oldest boy to become a pugilist. "He's going to be a fine athletic fellow," says Bob, "but no fighting for him."

Here's the way Fitz views the situation: "My days as a fighter are ended, but people still flock about me and want to see me box or hit the bag. I have a punch or two left, but from now on I am going to be an actor, go around with Julien, my wife, and enjoy life. I have been all over the world, have won most of my fights, and the ring, the gong, the gang, gloves, etc., don't appeal to me now. I am nearing the meridian of my years, have a nice farm down in New Jersey, where my children are being educated, and am happy."

Fitz doesn't take the white "hopes" seriously. He thinks there is nobody able to whip Johnson.

On no fewer than sixteen occasions Mr. Jabez Wolfe has valiantly attempted to emulate Captain Webb's ever-memorable feat of swimming the English Channel; and some time in July or August of this year he will make his seventeenth, and as he himself says, his final attempt.

Wolfe's best attempt was in 1903, when he reached within 370 yards of the Calais shore. He was in the water 15 hours 16 minutes, and during the last two hours had battled valiantly but unsuccessfully against an ebb tide.

This year Wolfe—who, by the way, is a Glasgow man—will start from the French side, an arrangement he thinks more satisfactory than making Dover the starting point.

The gambler whom Tommy Murphy says offered him $15,000 to let Brown win could have gone the limit without risking his money. That victory didn't require buying.

Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette have signed for a battle to take place in New York the latter part of the month.

It looks like Vancouver, Spokane and Tacoma to fight it out for the Northwestern League flag this season. Seattle, Victoria and Portland are hardly showing the class expected of them earlier in the season. Jack Tighe, the Seattle manager, probably figured that he would have a cinch grabbing the bunting out this way after winning a few flags in the brush back east, but he has probably found out by this time that they play pretty good ball in the Northwest.

President Lindsay of the Northwestern League has sent out a circular letter to the managers of the different clubs, in which he points out that as there has been too much "baiting" of umpires lately he proposes handing out severe penalties to any manager who is ordered out of a game by the umpire in future games. If the manager gets into any disputes with the arbiter and is chased from the grounds Mr. Lindsay states that he will promptly suspend him for thirty days.
