Dental Lecturer at Public Meeting Yesterday

"The three principal factors necessary to success in life are health, character and efficiency," declared Dr. Harry S. Thomson of Toronto, lecturer of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, in addressing a public meeting yesterday afternoon at Booth Memorial School, "At one time there was tendency to give efficiency the first place in importance but today health is conceded first place."

Dr. Thomson stressed the responsibility that parents owed to their children in the matter of giving them a fair start in life to far as health was concerned. It was a responsibility which existed even before the child was born.

The principal object of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, Dr. Thomson explained, was to teach dental hygiene and disseminate the story of better health. Dental hygiene was a matter of much importance since dental disease might be responsible for many human ailments such as lowered resistance. malnutrition and even mental dis-

It was of primary importance that dental decay should be prevented and, if it occurred, remedied by filling of the teeth. Importance of the proper foods in the building of the teeth was stressed. The teeth consisted of two parts-the crown and the roots. What Causes Decay

Indeed, fruits. vegetables, whole grain breads and dairy products were of great importance, particularly pre-natally, in the building George last evening from the of good teeth in the coming child. smelter town. In cleaning the teeth Dr. Thomson pointed out the necessity of the sweeping downward through the crevices instead of across th teeth. Foreign matters could not be effectively removed by the cross movement of the brush.

Dr. Thomson then gave some interesting glimpses of modern methods in dental treatment. No longer would a dentist remove the nerve from a tooth before filling it and thus leave a "dead" tooth which was bound to develop pus to be later liberated throughout the system to possibly cause tuberculosis, malnutrition, lowered resistance or a myriad of other complaints. Dr. Thomson referred to the value of the x-ray in detecting abscessed teeth.
