Canada's Anthem

O Canada, our home and native land True patriot love in all thy sons

With glowing heart we see thee rise The true North strong and free, And stand on guard, O Canada, We stand on guard for thee.

O Canada, glorious and free

O Canada we stand on guard for

O Canada we stand on guard for

BEWARE OF GUARANTEES

The city of Merritt guaranteed the bonds of a power corporation that was being established in the city. The re- ficult in view of the disappointing sult was disastrous. The city now has to pay and the effort has put it on the rocks.

People are often asked to sign papers, to back notes or to give guarantees which they never expect to meet. They or to Palestine, or to Macedonia, or Bob Tobey. do it out of a spirit of good nature and in a good many cases they are called upon to pay. Beware of guarantees either for the government, the city or the individual.

RAYS OF LIGHT

On Saturday it was reported that bank clearings in Canada were moving up and that there was an improvement in the retail and wholesale business of the United of military representatives of the States. FIELD MARSHAL PASSED AWAY

Sir William Robertson Who Died Westerday Had Great Military Career

LONDON, Feb. 13:-Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, 75 years of age, died here suddenly on Sunday. His career in the British army is without parallel as the only man to rise from the ranks to receive a field marshal's baton. He was decorated for services, in South Africa, India and the Great War.

Of poor parentage, Sir William enlisted as a private in the 16th (Queen's) Lancers at the age of 18, Lace took place here yesterday, the and closed an active career when he received the baton of a field marshal 43 years later. For three years of the Great War he was chief of the Imperial General Staff and, accordingly, one of the most important military figures among the Allied commanders. He was also an independent thinker.

Sir William became Chief of the Imperial General Staff in December, 1915. He immediately introduced great improvements in organization and during the first year and a half of his holding the appointment was successful in keeping the general control of operations on sound lines. While convin- 1:30. ced that the Western Front represented the decisive theatre of war. and fully aware how mischievous was diversion of force in principle. he saw to it that, where circumstances unfortunately rendered operations in distant regions unavoidable, the commanders on the spot were furnished with what was deemed necessary to achieve success with the result that the position of affairs in Mesopotamia, on the Suez frontier and in East Africa was badminton tournament which was completely transformed within very few months of his taking up his task.

He had always experienced some trouble in sufficiently impressing number of players gave their upon the government that the war whole-hearted support The wincould only be won on the Western ners of the finals were warmly Front and in the later months of 1917 he found it more and more difresults obtained by Allied offensives in France and Flanders, to persuade the war cabinet that diversion of fighting resources to Alexandretta, 3ill Murray beat Mr. Sutton and to the Austro-Italian frontier, endangered prospects of victory at the decisive point and might lead to digaster near home.

His anxieties were increased by the manner in which the problem of man-power was treated. He moreover foresaw that the plan of having a supreme war council composed month before the success of the great German offensive in March proved how correct had been his appreciation of the situation.
