TO PROCEED SOUTHWARD

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh May Visit Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires Before Return to States

NATAL, Brazil, Dec. 8: (CP)—The safe arrival here at 3:01 Wednesday afternoon of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh after a 16-hour and ten minute flight across the Atlantic Ocean from Bathurst, West Africa, a distance of 1870 miles at an average speed of about 120 miles per hour, was the signal for the suspension of all business activities so that the entire population might participate in the welcome and the holiday spirit that pervaded. The people had been kept well advised of the progress of the flight and knew in advance almost to the minute when the big Lockheed-Vega monoplane should land.

Col. Lindbergh, after landing, stated that the flight had been an uneventful one. They had been aided by a brisk breeze almost all the way and a good deal of the trip had been made by moonlight. For Col. Lindbergh it was the third crossing of the Atlantic Ocean, the first having been in 1927 when he flew the famous old "Spirit of St. Louis" from New York to Paris and the second during the last summer when he and Mrs. Lindbergh flew across the ocean by the easy stages of the northern route, being now on their return home.

The plane was being checked over today and it was believed that Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh would be here until tomorrow. While they have not definitely announced their plans for continuation of the homeward flight to the United States, it is believed they may proceed southward from here to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires and thence across South America and up the West Coast, crossing the United States to New York.

The first concern of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, after landing, appeared to be to get some much-needed rest. Both appeared to be in the best of health and fine spirits.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENT

Inquest Held Yesterday Into Shooting of Freeman George Brynolson of Seattle

Was Badly Hurt

Doctor Describes Nature of Injuries—Hunters Urged to Wear Marks

The coroner's jury at the inquest held here Thursday afternoon into the death of Freeman George Brynolson of Seattle, victim of a hunting fatality near Butedale, down the coast from here on Wednesday, found that deceased came to his death on board the boat Norah Jane, on which he had been taken following the shooting, as a result of a shot fired by John A. Hanson on Princess Royal Island, it being the opinion of the jury that death was accidental. The jury strongly recommended that hunters wear some distinguishing mark when in the woods.

Dr. L. W. Kergin, who performed a post-mortem examination, described the nature of the injury and ascribed death to shock and loss of blood. He gave it as his opinion that the nature of the injuries were such that there could have been no possibility of saving deceased's life unless an expert medical man had been in immediate attendance. The femur or thigh bone had been shattered and the femoral artery severed. There had been profuse bleeding.

Principal witness at the inquest was Jack Hanson who fired the fatal shot and particulars of whose story were published yesterday. Other witnesses were George S. Harrison, Oscar Anderson, Thomas D. Frapp, Thomas A. Kelley and Jarvis H. McLeod who told of the arrangements which had been made for separate hunting territory and of assistance that had been given deceased after the accident.

Evidence was adduced to show that deceased, contrary to the arrangement which had been made before Hanson and he had started out from the beach, had crossed a river to the opposite side into Hanson's territory. Hanson had believed that deceased had been on the other side of the river and had no idea of any living person being in the vicinity.

Deputy Coroner A. J. Lancaster presided at the inquest and Constable Robert Gibson conducted the investigation of witnesses.

Burial in Victoria

Mr. Brynolson's remains were taken aboard the steamer Prince George last night for burial in Victoria, deceased's mother as well as other relatives being residents of the Capital City, and his father being buried there.

Accompanying the remains south were City Commissioner W. J. Alder, father-in-law of deceased, other members of the ill-fated hunting expedition also returning south on the same vessel.

RECEPTION WAS COOL

Ketchikan Seiner, Seeking Herring, Driven Out of Myers Chuck

KETCHIKAN, Dec. 8: (CP)—It was not a very cordial reception that greeted the seiner Yellowstone when it pulled into the little fishing settlement of Myers Chuck, thirty miles north of here, to secure herring. The Yellowstone no sooner arrived in the harbor Wednesday than all residents put out in rowboats, surrounded the seiner and, armed with guns, ordered Captain A. Strand to leave. One man aimed a gun at the captain but a woman knocked it down with an oar.

"Myers Chuck people seem to want the herring themselves," Captain Strand said. The Yellowstone will return there today with a coastguard boat as convoy.

with a minimum of ten inches diameter at the top. Shipment of these will commence next month.

The initial order called for shipment of half a million feet but a wire was received by Mr. Connelly here yesterday doubling the order.

A good deal of negotiation preceded the receipt of the order. Various concessions had to be made by the government, the railway company and others in order to make it possible.

The present plan is to ship the logs to Vancouver on scows from which place they will be transhipped to China. If it were possible to provide full cargoes here, a ship would call for them but this does not at present seem probable.

It is pointed out that this order will provide a good deal of work in the interior and also work for railways and longshoremen and will be of distinct value to Prince Rupert and district.

This is the beginning of a new industry which may prove very important.

Why the Salaried Man Should Buy at Home

Editor, Daily News:

In response to your editorial of the 4th instant we wish to submit the basic reasons which constitute the foundations of the present "Buy at Home" campaign. We also wish to thank "Patriot" for his support while we do not share his views as outlined in his letter.

We want it clearly understood that we are not championing the cause of the Prince Rupert merchant. He has to fight for himself and conduct his business along up-to-date lines which will enable him to compete favorably with out-of-town business houses.

Also we are not exonerating the business men from being themselves guilty of the offence of buying out of town. We know who is doing it and we have statistics to show the amount of money which leaves town every year. Prince Rupert has the highest record.

What would happen if we were to buy all our requirements from the United States, or any foreign country? Canada would be bankrupt. The same thing will happen to Prince Rupert. Canada, of course, is protected by tariff but no such privilege is available to a municipality. This is left to the loyalty of the people of any community.

We believe that the salaried people are reasonable people and (Continued on Page 5)
