Conditions Improving Premier Bennett quoted from produce, wheat and commodity prices as well as trade balances of iod of disastrously low prices was nearing an end. somewhat intermediate position be- Court. tween the gold and sterling countries. Anything else but the maintenance of "sound money," the Premier believed, would be disastrous to the business and development of the country and the maintenance of confidence. The object of his administration, he declared was to put dollars into the pockets of those who today had none and. at the same time, put more dollars into the pockets of those who aleady had some. Only in that way could security of the business and financial structure of the country be maintained. Mr. Bennett referred incidentally to the influences which he had had to combat from those, on the one hand, who, without any definite plan, talked of setting up a modern Utopia where there would be plenty for all and, on the other, those who would apply Nineteenth Century policies to Twentieth Century conditions.

Increase Note Circulation Gold reserves of Canada are sufficient to materially increase Dominion note circulation without violating the principle of twenty five percent gold-supported currency adopted by the world conference, Mr. Bennett explained. He intimated that such a method might be used to meet the needs of the Dominion but in such a manner as not to injure credit at home or abroad

The Premier made this statement before giving definite assurance that legislation providing for the establishment of a central bank of Canada would be brought down next session and intimating that the government has been seriously considering an extensive program of public works undertakings, possibly next spring.

FORD ECONOMY TEST RUN

A continuous 10,000 mile run of a Ford V8 was completed in Winnipeg on Tuesday, October 17, and a large enthusiastic crowd which had followed the performance of the car assembled to welcome it at the Legislative Building.

When the results of the test were made public the first reaction was one of amazement that an 8-cylinder automobile could operate so economically; the second reaction one of enthusiasm that such a feat was possible. The test car was on the road continuously from October 4th to October 17th, travelling under all kinds of conditions-both road and weather. The route travelled was from Winnipeg to Yorkton, via Dauphin, returning to Winnipeg via Brandon, Boissevain, Morden and Carman. The total mileage for the round trip was 774 miles, and route was covered thirteen times. The object of the test was to prove how economically the highpowered, speedy eight-cylinder standard Ford car could be operated, and the final results shown below are most gratifying and satisfactory, not only to the sponsors of the test, but to all purchasers and propective purchasers of a truly modern automobile.

The car used was not a new unit, but had already travelled over 11,000 miles before the test was made and was standard in every way, no special equipment of any kind being used.

Twenty-five different drivers, under the jurisdiction of a checker from the Contest Board of the Manitoba Motor League, piloted the car through the most diversified road and weather conditions that could possibly be experienced. A lot of the territory covered was very hilly, practically all of it being over loosely gravelled roads, which are not conducive to the most economical operation.

The drivers experienced rain, fog and snow, and unfortunately. for by far the greater period of the test, strong head winds were encountered. On two particular days these winds could be classed as Temperatures ranged from 70 degrees above zero to six degrees below freezing, and during the whole test only one day could really be termed a favorable one for an economy test run.

In spite of these factors the figures are amazing, and several complete runs were made where gasoline mileage bettered 25 miles to the gallon.

The following are the final results and details in regard to the run, and speak for themselves:

Number of days run-13. Total mileage-10,000.

Gallons of gasoline used-4361/2

Miles per gallon gasoline-22.90.

Oil used (exclusive of oil changes made every 1,500 miles) -3 qts.,

Total elapsed time of run-305 hours, I minute. Time required for changing drivers, meals, refuelling, etc.-33 hours, 29 minutes.

Net running time-271 hours, 32 minutes. Net average speed-36.83 miles per hour.

No mechanical repairs were made.

One battery was changed. Tires were changed on seven trips due to nail punctures.

We do not believe there is a standard size automobile being built today that would give anything like the above results under the same conditions, and we are very proud to be able to pass the facts along to you.
