CRUISER WON OUT

Prince Rupert All-Stars Lose 3 to Nil in Soccer

The smart and fast football team of H. M. S. Dragon had no difficulty in demonstrating its superiority over an all-star Prince Rupert eleven by a score of three to nil last evening, thus retaining possession of the Hanson Cup which the Dragon has held since their last visit here three years ago. The biggest crowd of fans to see a soccer match here so far this season was on hand despite an uncomfortable drizzle of rain in which the game was played.

The score at half time was two to nil in favor of the warship which played down hill in the first period. Prince Rupert undoubtedly suffered through being without the services of two of its star players, Chenoski and McKay, for whom Gilker and Johnny Pierce relieved. The match was, on the whole, fairly well contested.

C. C. F. CASE PRESENTED

New Social Order Designed to Ensure Livelihood For People in Return For Work Urged by Dr. Telford

ECONOMIC DISCOURSE

Middle Course in Bringing About Economic Change Advocated—Clashes With "Reds"

"If you wish to continue the present collapsing economic system for another five years, vote for the old line party candidates. If, on the other hand, you desire a change, support the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. But, above all, be careful of the type of men you choose and see to it that they are men of honesty, character and integrity, imbued with the ideal of service to mankind and not mere players of politics."

Such was the exhortation of Dr. Lyle Telford, prominent physician and surgeon of Vancouver, in addressing a well-attended meeting in the Moose Hall here last night in support of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation political movement. Dr. Telford, who has a free and easy, good-natured platform manner, won the sympathy of his audience from the outset and inspired a good measure of enthusiasm among his listeners. Particularly was this evident at the close of the meeting when some questioners, with obvious "red" tendencies, attempted to face the doctor with embarrassing questions. One of these individuals who questioned the speaker's sincerity in carrying C. C. F. gospel into company towns and became quite abusive about it, was ordered removed from the hall after he had refused the order of the chairman, T. J. Shenton, to take his seat.

Serious Situation

Dr. Telford, who spoke for about an hour and a half, referred in opening to the serious problem which faced the most of people today of earning a livelihood. Increasingly great numbers of people were being ground down under the present economic system and unemployment, while not a new thing, was becoming increasingly serious. He predicted that, despite what might be said to the contrary, prosperity could not return under the present system. The situation was one which must be faced seriously. A new plan must be adopted in the applying of human energy to the natural resources so as to produce a living for the people.

The speaker condemned the present system under which the ownership of natural resources and means of production of wealth and the control of the banking system were centred in and exploited by a small group to which some 96% of mankind had to pay tribute in the way of rents, profits, interest and graft. There was an abundance of wealth in the world, yet men and women were virtually starving to death. The workers had exhausted their pittance of wages as a result of the owning class closing down the wheels of industry owing to over-production. Unless there was a radical change in the whole economic system, conditions were bound to become even worse.

Dr. Telford described money as a mere acknowledgment of production of wealth in the way of food, manufactured products or something of social value which people mutually required. Money, in itself, was not of value as a commodity (Continued on Page Four)
