DRAWING IS DISCUSSED

Miss E. A. Mercer Speaker at Meeting of Teachers' Federation

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association took place Tuesday evening, Miss E. A. Mercer being the speaker and taking as her topic "The Teachers' Manual of Drawing," this being the new text-book for drawing in the elementary and high school grades of the province.

Some of the features are the flexibility of the course, the "formation of a graphic vocabulary to increase the child's power of expression and the encouragement of graphic expression." The desire of the average child to draw is utilized fully and he is given every encouragement to express himself and the boy's interest in the aeroplane, in birds in flight, in the trees and their forms, in fish and their forms supplies an incentive that the teacher uses to make the art lesson interesting and progressive.

The more modern forms of balance, the value of a drawing that will give a lasting impression of the essence of the object, rather than an exact copy with detail, were very interestingly demonstrated from the speaker's original work as well as from type copies. The new text book will be of inspirational value to all teachers of art and the pupils will get a readier insight into the beauties that are within their powers to express and by means that eliminate some of the unnecessary repetition of inanimate forms that too often make drawing a burden. As outlined by Miss Mercer this up-to-date method of instruction is a decided advance in the teaching of art.

At the business meeting, resolutions were considered regarding representation on the central executive, annual convention, and other professional interests. Miss Shiell was appointed secretary-treasurer to relieve W. W. C. O'Neill. J. S. Wilson presided.

What is all this I hear about buying at home?

Jake says the only place he buys is at home. His wife orders over the telephone and brings the bills to nim to pay. That's the real "buy at home."

I bought a pair of pants
And sent away the cash,
The pants, they came and did not fit;
I feel so much ashamed of it;
For I sure thought to make a hit;
My money's gone to smash.
