> Disappointed with returns on the North Island grounds where he had been operating for the past few weeks, Skipper O. P. Smith arrived in town last week from the Islands and left here Wednesday afternoon for Cape Scott at the north end of Vancouver Island where he is hopeful of doing better with his well known troller Billy Boy. "O. P." was joined here by his son, Otto jr. (Billy) who, after attending school in Vancouver, will be with his dad for the summer. It is hardly likely that the Billy Boy will be back in northern waters again this year. Quite a number of other southern trollers have been drifting away from the northern grounds recent-
