Prosperity A. Leads Local Fleet in Volume of Landings—Salmon Fishing Falling Off—Week's Halibut Business

Up to September 1, the Prosperity A., Capt. A. C. Christiansen, with 250,000 pounds in eleven trips, was the leading unit of the Prince Rupert halibut fleet for volume of production in the 1933 season. The Relief, Capt. Merrill Sollows, was second with an aggregate of 238,000 pounds in thirteen trips and the Cape Beale, Capt. Edgar Arnott, third with 228,000 pounds in six trips.

The Relief had made the greatest number of trips, thirteen, while the Tramp, Capt. Sam Hougan, was second with twelve trips for a total production of 179,500 pounds. Boats which had made eleven trips were the Atli, Capt. William Bussey, 179,000 pounds; Capella, Capt. Dan Larsen, 161,500 pounds; Ingrid H., Capt. Charles Lundquist, 131,000 pounds; J. R., Capt. J. P. Reid, 95,000 pounds; Prosperity A., Capt. A. C. Christiansen, 250,000 pounds; Pair of Jacks, Capt. Peter Liland, 113,000 pounds; R. W., Capt. Anskar Wick, 126,500 pounds; Rose Spit, Capt. Axel Olsen, 168,000 pounds, and Viking I., Capt. H. Erickson, 130,500 pounds.

As far as volume of landings at Prince Rupert was concerned, the Oceanic was leading the American fleet with an aggregate of 165,000 pounds in ten trips. The Sherman was second with 151,000 pounds in two trips and the Baltic third with 129,000 pounds in eight trips. The visitor had landed the greatest number of fares at Prince Rupert for the American fleet, namely twelve for a total catch of 61,500 pounds. The Thor had made eleven trips for a total of 65,500 pounds and the Oceanic and Viola ten trips each for totals of 165,000 and 71,500 pounds respectively.

While working on a pipe wrenching job at Victory Cove on Wednesday afternoon of this week, Bert Flewin had the misfortune to fracture a rib as a result of which he will be confined to camp pretty much for the remainder of the coming fortnight. He was in port on Thursday afternoon with the fish packer Taplow II and, while here, received necessary medical treatment for the injury. Flewin and Brown during the past week reopened their camp at Warke Canal and are packing the coho salmon taken there to Inverness cannery on the Skeena River. Previous to this they had been packing salmon from Klemtu and elsewhere down the coast to Inverness with the Taplow II.

Skipper O. P. Smith, who has recently been chasing the elusive salmon in the Banks Island vicinity with his well known trolling boat Billy Boy, was in port late this week, arriving on Thursday afternoon and leaving again the next day. "O. P." who is disgusted with the way the fish have been running in northern waters this season, is now heading southward. He will try the various fishing grounds enroute to Vancouver where, as usual, it is his intention to spend the winter.

Six Canneries Running
Six salmon canneries are still in operation packing fall fish in Prince Rupert district, these being Claxton, Inverness and Oceanic on the Skeena River and Lowe Inlet, Butedale and Namu in the central coast area. The Skeena River canneries are getting their supplies of coho salmon principally from some two hundred boats which were still engaged in gill-netting on the river while some fish is also being delivered from the trolling grounds. The canneries in the central area are on board. The vessel left here on Monday morning of this week for the Islands. Col. Pragnell arrived late last week from the south in the course of his annual northern inspection tour and will proceed from here to the interior.

John Group of Oona River has been in the city this week-end in connection with his boat building operations. So far he has turned out eight fine fishing boats and expects to be busy during the coming winter.

Quite a large run of spring and coho salmon is reported from Marble Island and Rennel Sound on the Queen Charlotte Islands but there are no packers to carry the fish for the trollers. Very few chums and pinks are reported to be showing up in the streams around Skidegate Inlet and it is beginning to look like this is to be very much of an off year there.

After having spent the summer in command of his old love, the mission boat Northern Cross, which has now been tied up for the winter, Canon W. F. Rushbrook on Sunday last resumed his ministrations in St. Peter's Anglican Church at Seal Cove. In the morning there was children's service while, in the evening, the usual adults' service was held. There were large congregations which taxed the capacity of the church on both occasions and

The 12-ton San Diego power yacht Chalice, which has been cruising Alaska waters for the past two weeks with her owner, Charles Boynton, and party on board, is in port Wednesday on her way south. She tied up during her stay at the floats of the Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club. Mr. Boynton reported that the trip had been most enjoyable one.

INTERESTED VISITOR
William Irvine, M.P. for Wetaskiwin, who is spending a few days in the city, paid a visit to the Canadian Fish Cold Storage Co. and local dry dock plants yesterday and today is being taken for a launch trip around the harbor as the guest of the local branch of the Socialist Party of Canada. While here Mr. Irvine is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dalgarno. He is a former Presbyterian Church minister and comes from the same part of Scotland as Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sandison of this city. He will sail for Vancouver on the ss. Prince Rupert tomorrow night.

KAIEN ISLE
Where the sentinel mountains brood
In eternal majesty
O'er the storm and smile of our
Kaïen Isle
In the arms of the sparkling sea.
Where the mighty Pacific rolls
And its stately vessels sweep
To the stretching hands of the shelt'ring land,
Out of the stormy deep.
Where never a painter limned,
Such glory of sunset skies—
Crimson and gold and purple unfold
Their hues as the daylight dies.
Where the silvery spoils of the sea
Are heaped at the island shore,
When her sons speed home on the rolling foam
With treasure of richest store.
Dear port of the fisherman's dream
As he toils with his nets at sea;
Haven of rest, our Isle of the West,
In the arms of the sparkling sea.
—WINIFRED O. BRASS.

HOORAY! ROSIE! YOU'RE SURE THE CAST IRON CUPID

A Cast-Iron Cupid —By Westover.

Illustration of a man and a woman in a room. The man is holding a large cast-iron cup and looking at the woman. The woman is looking at the cup with a surprised expression. The man says, "SO YOU'RE MAKING LOVE TO TILLIE, POPPA MAC". The woman replies, "HEY YOU MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS AND BESIDES TILLIE DON'T CARE FOR ME". The man says, "SO TILLIE DON'T LIKE YOU, EH? THAT'S A LAUGH SHE LIKES YOU MORE THAN SHELL ADMIT— THAT'S WHAT MAKES ME SORE". The woman replies, "SHUSH ROSIE". The man says, "HOORAY! ROSIE! YOU'RE SURE THE CAST IRON CUPID".
