NOT YET TOO LATE

In view of the fact that the election of T. D. Pattullo seems certain and that the policies of George Rudderham and Charles Chapman are impossible of immediate adoption, it is not yet too late for these two worthy gentlemen to consider whether it would not be a courteous act to retire from the field and allow the future premier of the province to be elected by acclamation.

Mr. Rudderham bears an excellent reputation in the community and while Mr. Chapman is not known to many except in connection with his recent activities among the unemployed there is nothing personally against him. They have served their respective parties well in bringing before the people the socialistic program for which they stand. Having done that, which is all they can expect to do, why not now show the people of Prince Rupert that they really are trying to work in the interests of the city and step aside?

We make this suggestion not with a view to creating dissension but for the purpose of showing the south that we are a unit for the north. Both Chapman and Rudderham seem to be trying to reach the same end—a social revolution by peaceful means. Evidently the people do not want that revolution just now. They are against it. Pattullo will be elected but he would go back to the House with so much greater strength if he were given a united vote of all the people.

Let it be granted that the Liberal leader does not and cannot please all the electors. He is the only candidate on whom we can compromise. The Conservatives have done their part by withholding a candidate. If the other two, both of whom favor much of that for which Mr. Pattullo stands, can see their way to fall in line we shall be in an enviable position after the election. Both the socialist candidates have in the past stood behind the request for work at real wages for all the unemployed. They favor the best possible treatment for the workers just as does the Liberal leader. In view of this they might easily sink their personal ambitions and step aside until some more favorable occasion when they might possibly have a chance of winning.

William Brass Wins Rifle Shoot Title For Entire Rail System; Takes Coveted Thornton Shield

Word has just come through from Montreal that William Brass wins the Canadian National Recreation Association system championship for small bore rifle shooting. This is for combined high total in the indoor and outdoor series on home ranges. For this he wins the gold medal and champion marksman trophy. This trophy was first put up by Sir Henry Thornton in 1929 for annual competition and this is the first time that it has been won by any competitor outside of Montreal or Toronto.

In the winter indoor series 1932-1933, small bore rifle system competitions on home ranges, in which fifteen matches were held between October, 1932 and April, 1933, Mr. Brass made an average of 99.25 out of a posible 100. He was defeated by only two points in the aggregate for this event by G. M. Emslie of Toronto, the famous Bisley shot. Mr. Emslie thus won the gold medal and W. Brass, as runner-up, won the silver medal.

In the summer series, season of 1933 system competitions on outdoor home ranges, in which eight matches were held between June and September, Mr. Brass, with an average of 99.08, a system record, took first place and won the gold medal for this series. His combined aggregate for both summer and winter series was high for the system, thus entitling him to the coveted champion marksman trophy, otherwise known as the Sir Henry Thornton Shield.

C. N. R. A. marksmen from Prince Rupert have again entered the system series indoor shooting and hope to keep the high standard of marksmanship which has so far been maintained by competitors from this point.

Comic Softball Is Entertaining

The comic softball game staged by the High School boys last week proved to be an interesting as well as a financial success.

The players dressed in screaming outfits, marched around the field to the cords and discords of "How Dry I Am," music being furnished by the school band. Tobey, dressed in an oversized nightgown and cap, led the freak players to the diamond. Naylor, the country yokel, dressed in his girlish costume with extended rear bumper, proved to be a school hero. Morgan, the belle of the game, was beautifully dressed in a purple evening gown with yellow rolled socks. The players, varying from Eskimos to basketball players, acted a good game and handed out many good laughs to the spectators. The game wound up by wheeling Tobey off the diamond after he had fallen asleep on first base due to overwork and strain of pitching.

The score was 50 laughs to 50 errors.

WHIFFLETS
From the Waterfront

The annual winter school of navigation at Prince Rupert will be opened by Capt. J. R. Elfert, harbor master, on November 1. The school is expected to prove exceptionally popular for fishermen this winter in view of the fact that they are now to be given credit for time spent at sea on fishing vessels in connection with the taking of examinations for tugboat masters' papers.

Only two salmon packers, both of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. fleet, are now operating to the Skidegate Inlet trolling grounds, one being the Grier Starrett, Capt. A. Ness, which arrived in port a day or so ago with 12,000 pounds of cohoes for the local plant. Trollers are still picking up a few cohoes there but, although quite a few fish are reported to be running, they are not taking the spoon very well.

Word reached port yesterday of the loss of the American halibut schooner Prosperity, owned and skippered by Capt. C. Hendrickson, in the vicinity of Cape St. Elias in last week's storm on the western halibut banks. No lives were lost the crew being landed at Cordova. The Prosperity is not to be confused with the well known Prosperity A. Capt. A. C. Christiansen, one of the largest vessels of the Prince Rupert fleet.

M. P. McCaffery, Olgf Hanson M. P. and Aubrey C. Peck of Vancouver, who have been on a campaign tour of the Queen Charlotte Islands on behalf of T. D. Pattullo, Liberal candidate in the provincial election, are temporarily marooned across Hecate Straits. It was too stormy to send a boat across yesterday to get them and the vessel which was to have gone this morning developed engine trouble. Arrangements are now being made for another vessel.
