"BUY AT HOME"

Your job is here. You want your wages to be protected but how much thought do you give to the other fellow. Again, what of the children who are about to go out into the world? Will there be a position for them to fill or will they have to leave us and go to the towns to which much of our money is going?

This for those of the citizens who believe that it is cheaper to send elsewhere for goods which could be readily purchased in town. There may be a certain monetary saving but is there the complete satisfaction of seeing the quality of the goods you are buying? Do the out-of-town postmarks on the parcel or the freight bills marked "Paid" repay you for the smile of the local merchant who is here waiting to cater to your requirements?

When you mail your orders aren't you haunted by the ghost of the music of the cash register which would have played its tune had you purchased in town? Think! Your money is earned here. Is it not worth while to put it back into circulation where it belongs? To what a use the thousands of dollars which go out of here annually could be put! We could even venture to say the hundreds of thousands for it must run into six figures. Then having thought a little of the manifold blessings of that money, make your purchases in town and watch the results. They will be speedily effective in increased earnings of store employes. Effective, too, and perhaps less speedily in new buildings, old buildings renovated, taxes paid, increased revenue to the city, more money in the treasury for local improvements and much needed work.

Think not alone of the present but of the future and the not too distant future. Consider just what a few days' work would mean to hundreds of local families. What a different Christmas Day they would have if they could look forward to 1934 in anticipation of work.

And this is all possible through the co-operation of the public with the merchants of Prince Rupert. You can make it possible by BUYING AT HOME.

Why help to create employment in cities which have no other interest in Prince Rupert than to ship parcels of goods here? Every dollar which leaves town serves to keep some person in employment at the point of its destination but can have nothing but a detrimental effect on the employment situation locally. The spirit of the pioneer is not entirely dead. Geographically we are together on what is close to the frontier. Let us, then, be together in the spirit which will create a better town to live in.

PRESIDENT REPORTS ON HIS VISIT

T. H. Johnson Tells of Work Done
By Canadian Chamber of Commerce to Which He Was Delegate

A very interesting and instructive report on the recent convention in Ottawa of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, to which he was a delegate, was given by T. H. Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, at the regular monthly meeting last night. There were a number of prominent speakers at the event, among them being Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, and Hon. W. D. Robbins, United States representative at Ottawa.

The plan of the convention was that a committee was chosen to listen to all the speeches and from them draw up a policy for the chamber. Mr. Johnson was on that committee and it worked very hard. It mentioned that the addresses indicated a steady and rapid improvement in commercial conditions.

The first subject dealt with was that of economy. It strongly urged that Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade support public bodies in this and refrain from petitioning for undertakings which would add to the public debt unless they would be self-supporting or were absolutely necessary.
