Labor Day Dance Successful Affair

There were some two hundred persons in attendance and dancing was in full sway from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. Music was by Mrs. J. S. Black's Orchestra and Ben Dalgarno was master of ceremonies. Refreshments were served at midnight under the direction of Mrs. Peter Wingham. Frank Derry and Sam Marshall presided at the door.

CHIEF OF CANADIAN NATIONAL TELLS OF RAIL CO-OPERATION

pay. A new means of transport, the motor-driven vehicle, has been developed which has taken away from the railways a certain amount of the most profitable traffic while transportation by water has been greatly developed and has become a serious competitor in certain fields. These conditions, plus the depression, with its consequent shrinkage in railway traffic, have created difficulties and have imposed on the managements of the railways the necessity of doing things which all concerned would have preferred not to do but everybody has recognized the urgency of the problem to be met and the employees generally have shown a very proper appreciation of the situation and have co-operated to a great extent in carrying out measures which involve sacrifices on their part in the prevailing situation. The two great railway systems have learned to co-operate. They have adopted methods that a few years ago would have been thought too radical for consideration but the departures from established practice have been found to be beneficial as good evidence that progress is being made. You have seen the two railways establish pool services between Toronto and Montreal and between Toronto and Ottawa.

"You have seen the railways establish pick-up and delivery services, using local truck companies to perform the road haulage function in the midst of innovations and transition. You have also seen a return of some old timer practices like cheap excursion rates—some of them as low as a cent per mile. The railways are also co-ordinating terminal services, establishing joint agencies, using each other's lines and facilities. Much has been accomplished to date while studies are proceeding and more may be expected in the near future.

"Before a number of the economies that have been obtained could be made effective it was necessary for the public to change its attitude. This change has come with the lesson which nearly every one has learned, that it is bad business for any one to live beyond one's means.

"There may be a disposition on the part of some to feel that the railways were slow to realize what the motor propelled vehicle was doing but it is not easy to see unerringly the changing conditions. For the railways to adopt without care and examination any or all of the suggested methods of holding this competition at bay might have led to a more serious financial catastrophe. As I have already indicated we are finding in co-ordination of all existing methods of transport the best hope for the future."

Not Pessimistic

In conclusion, Mr. Hungerford stated that he did not share the pessimism felt in some quarters about Canada having more railway mileage than can be economically supported at present. With the change in conditions, he believed, the financial load would become rapidly less. He believed there were signs of a general improvement already and said that Canadians have every reason to expect that trade and traffic will soon reach higher levels.

Exciting Drama Shown on Screen

Action of "Silk Express" Takes Place on Seattle-New York Train

Almost the entire action of the picture "Silk Express," week-end feature on the Capitol Theatre screen here, takes place on board a special train bound from Seattle to New York which is made up of silk cars, on which travel officials in charge of the shipment, with armed guards. In this particular instance, however, a pretty girl acting as a nurse to her father, who has been stricken suddenly ill, and a doctor are included as passengers.

The plot involves a battle between silk manufacturers and crooked financiers who do everything in their power to prevent the landing of the silk in New York, where they have cornered the market.

A series of mysterious incidents, including two murders, make the trip a most exciting melodrama. A notable cast, playing in support of Hamilton and Sheila Terry, includes Arthur Byron, Guy Kibbee, Allen Jenkins, Harold Huber and Dudley Digges.
