Most Modern System For Cleaning Clothes Being Established In City

One of the most modern cleaning and dying plants in the country has been installed in the city by Even Evenson, formerly with the Pioneer Laundry and for the past twelve years engaged in the business. It is located in the building formerly occupied by Red's Transfer on Second Street.

The feature of the new plant is the Glover's continuous flow cleaning apparatus which makes it possible to do the highest grade of work at the lowest possible cost. It Alaska capital. is the system used by all the large nodern plants but is the first of its

Mr. Evenson, in telling of his plans, says he has expended a good deal of money on this plant because he believes in the future of Prince Rupert and thinks the people here will appreciate having something better in that line than they have ever had in the past. He will open for business Monday and he expects to make his new enterprise pay. He uggests that from now on there will be no reason for sending work out of town because he can compete on very favorable terms with any plant in Canada. Mrs. Evenson who is also experienced in the work will

The proprietor of the plant will be glad to meet prospective customers and handle their cleaning business on and after Monday next. Phone 858 and articles will be called for and delivered on completion.
