Father Wolfe Tells of Journey

Is Enjoying Sunshine of Southern Africa Especially After Damp Of Europe

Father Charles Wolfe, who for nearly twenty years ministered to the adherents of the Roman Catholic Church in this part of the province, has written to Rev. Father E. Allard. He has arrived in his new field in Africa and gives his first impressions to his clerical comrade. "I left Southampton, England, November 4 and arrived at Durban on November 27, having made only four stops: Madeira, Capetown, which looks like Vancouver, Port Elizabeth and East London.

"The whole time I was in Europe the weather was rather damp and cold which was not so very good for my bronchitis. But as soon as we arrived on the coast of Africa I felt the change for the better. It was so nice and warm. From then on we had sunshine every day, hotter and hotter, but the sea breeze helped along. I changed from black to white suit and looked a regular 'hot guy.'

"The town of Durban is very English, very clean and a busy seaport. The Zulus do most of the manual work. You meet them on the street, no hat on, no shoes on, and pretty near nothing between. Never knew there was so much difference between real black and white!

"I am not definitely located yet. After my arrival I was allowed a few days' rest. Not being accustomed to the heat I felt so sleepy to start with. But otherwise I am feeling fine, no more bronchitis trouble.

"December, January, February and the first part of March are the hottest months of the year. After that the winter is but the name only. There is hardly any twilight, it is dark inside of half-an-hour. South Africa is not Canada, for here they are not so far ahead in many ways. They have hard times too.

"Give my best wishes to all my friends. I shall never forget Canada and especially British Columbia. A part of my heart shall always be there."

The Anglican Young People held a fancy dress party in the Church Hall last night. About sixty young people were in attendance and dancing was enjoyed until shortly after midnight. There were many picturesque and original costumes, Miss Margaret McLeod taking the first prize for the girls and B. Irvine for the boys. Delicious refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. President Orme Stewart acted as master of ceremonies. S. Dalby was in charge of the program and Miss A. Gilchrist and Miss J. Cross were in charge of the refreshments.

COME BACK TO UNITIES

Declaring that "a mad misdirection of the last quarter of a century" had built up a phychology of separatism in human society creating a serious modern social and economic problems, Dr. Dobson, United Church secretary of social service and evangelism, addressed a representative public gathering at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Presbytery. He reviewed in a masterly way the many economic issues confronting human society today, traced their development, and stated what must inevitably be the Christian attitude.

Dr. Dobson said, "we have to get back to unities; away from the clashes of individuals and groups—business had to be readjusted to save man, institutions of human society adapted not smashed. He declared "Christ had the lead to recovery." That institutions, groups and individuals are rapidly coming to realize that.

Dr. Dobson was warmly welcomed and thanked for his counsel and guidance. A much appreciated musical number was given by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Large, Mrs. Miller, Mr. Wilson and Dr. Large, who sang "Come Unto Me."
